Fortresses Stage Night Raid

LONDON (CP)—A formation of large Allied bombers which coastal observers identified as U.S. Flying Fortresses swept across the Channel toward France at 9 tonight.

An hour earlier several other waves of Allied aircraft had crossed the Channel. Watchers along the coast said there were heavy bombers in these formations also.

Forster, 36, a captain in the German navy, escaped Monday from an eastern townships' internment camp.

3 Fliers Killed

BRANTFORD, Ont. (CP)—Officials of No. 5 Service Flying Training School of the R.C.A.F. said a plane from the school crashed today on a farm 25 miles from here, killing all three aboard, an instructor and two student pilots.

Lacombe Blames Bad Translation

OTTAWA (CP)—Liguori Lacombe, CDN. Laval-Two Mountains, Que., said today in an interview that an extract from the "official translation into English" of his speech to the House of Commons last Friday—basis of criticism by Prime Minister King Monday—was not an accurate translation.

Mr. Lacombe spoke in French Friday. He said today his remark should have been translated to read: "We have on the government side of the House three new millionaires since the declaration of war," not "We have here in the cabinet three new millionaires who have made their money since the war's outbreak."

Medal for Barney

NEW YORK (AP)—Sgt. Barney Ross, U.S. Marine Corps hero of Guadalcanal and former world lightweight boxing champion, will be awarded the Silver Star medal for "conspicuous gallantry in action against the enemy," the Marine Corps announced today. The presentation will be made July 4 during "A Tribute to America's Heroes" program over the Blue Network.

Cordite Fire Kills 2

OTTAWA (CP)—The names of two men killed, nine critically burned and four slightly burned in a fire today at the Nobel, Ont., cordite plant of Defence Industries Ltd., were issued late today by the munitions department. Those killed were L. G. Hudson, Barrow, Ont.; and Arthur Russell, Parry Sound and Uterston, Ont. None of the injured were from western Canada.

Coogan Divorced

LOS ANGELES (AP)—Flower Parry Coogan was granted a divorce today from Jackie Coogan, famous juvenile film star of a few years ago. She testified that shortly after their marriage in August, 1941, he moved her into a sort of "glorified men's club" at Monterey, Calif.

Allies' War Moves Bringing Climax, Says MacDonald

OTTAWA (CP)—Rt. Hon. Malcolm MacDonald, United Kingdom High Commissioner to Canada, said today that for the past fortnight "we have had a dead enemy submarine served up for breakfast every day," and prophesied that assault on German strongholds in Europe will open very soon.

Mr. MacDonald said at a press conference the Allied powers are "obviously approaching another great crisis of the war."

He warned there might be "comparatively small" assaults on Germany or German-occupied territory, which should not at once be assumed to be the opening of a second front.

Allied anti-submarine efforts had been so successful in recent months that the tables had been completely turned on Axis under-sea raiders in the North Atlantic, he added.

This condition was one necessary prelude to an Allied assault on Europe. Another was the complete conquest of north Africa and the consequent shortening of the sea route to the Middle East.

SHAKING CONFIDENCE

While it was apparent that air raids were having the effect of weakening the people's confidence in their leaders, there was no evidence the German people's morale was reaching the cracking point, Mr. MacDonald said.

The Allied powers recognized that plans for a second front were natural and to be expected. However, the decision had been taken not to act prematurely, or until all reasonable efforts had been completed for making the assault a success.

"Now preparations are well along and it is unlikely we will have to wait very long," the minister said.

Desperate Italians Prepare for Battle

BERNE (AP)—The Gazette de Lausanne today said intense preparations are under way in Italy for a battle which may start at any hour, and that the Italians believe an Allied fleet is ready to attack the coasts of Sicily.

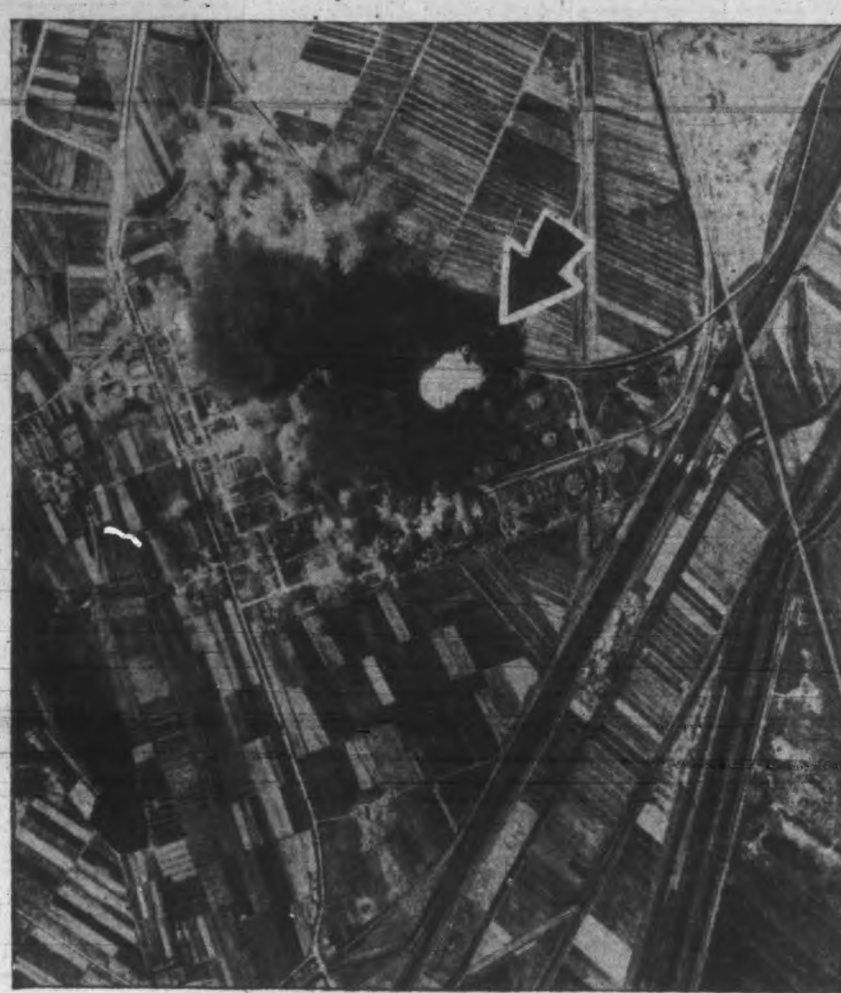

"It is easily understood that a prospective Allied landing in Sicily, Reggio Calabria or Naples of armored units, covered by dozens of warships and thousands of planes, cannot bring comfort," the Gazette added.

Saboteur Aides To Get New Trial

CHICAGO (AP)—The U.S. Circuit Court of Appeals reversed today the conviction of six Chicagoans on charges of treason and remanded their cases to the district court for a second trial.

They were convicted last Nov. 14, accused of harboring and aiding one of the eight Nazi saboteurs brought to the U.S. in German submarines last spring. Three of them were sentenced to death and three to 25 years' imprisonment.

Precision Bombing—Leghorn Gets a Dose of Deadly Accuracy

Here is a sample of the high precision bombing that Allied airmen are using with deadly accuracy in their daily bombings of Italy. Eight 500-pound bombs, released by a Flying Fortress bombardier, plummet down on Leghorn, Italy, right, in a raid on oil refineries there. Black smoke and flames, above, signal a direct hit on the target. Bombardier aimed not at oil tanks to right of explosion, but at the cracking and refining plant enveloped by blast, thus destroying a source of Italian oil production. Arrows in each picture mark the target area.

Foreshadowings of Pacific Drive

Daily Air Raids On Kiska Soften Japs for Knockout

WASHINGTON (AP)—Six heavy and medium bombers sent their bombs crashing on Japanese air, sea and supply bases. Their raids came at almost the same time submarine commanders reported sinking six Japanese supply craft, damaging three others and sending a destroyer and mine layer to the bottom during battle cruises in the "Pacific and Far East."

These sinkings brought the totals for Pacific submarine action to 269 Japanese vessels—190 sunk, 29 probably sunk and 50 damaged. Kiska is shuddering under the heaviest raids in weeks. Eight fires, possibly in barracks and supply dumps, were left blazing on Kiska after the 16th raid in the three days ending Saturday. More raids followed Sunday and Monday.

The latest news shows Japanese land and sea forces also being slammed with a mounting fury that may well mark the opening phases of a new campaign to drive the enemy farther back in the Pacific.

This became apparent today in the wake of the U.S. navy department reports listing a score of U.S. bomber raids throughout the Pacific and the destruction or damaging of 11 Japanese surface craft by American submarines. From Kiska to the Solomons.

Make 100 Raids, Lose Not 1 Man

ALLIED HEADQUARTERS IN NORTH AFRICA (AP)—A squadron of U.S. Flying Fortresses returned to base after raiding Leghorn Monday, completing 100 combat missions without the loss of a single man.

The record was made by the squadron commanded by Capt. Robert J. Duval, 24, of Los Angeles, a former student of Los Angeles City College and an automobile racing driver.

In 11 months the squadron has operated over western Europe, north Africa, Sicily, Sardinia, Pantellera and Italy.

The squadron's members encountered 775 enemy aircraft during their operations, of which they destroyed 34 and damaged many others. The squadron dropped more than 1,200 tons of bombs on enemy targets.

The number of fatal accidents in coal mining, per million tons of coal mined, has decreased 50 per cent in the past 30 years.

Eyewitness Account

Leningrad Standing Proud, 'Unconquerable'

The following vivid account of life in Leningrad as the city nears the end of its second year of siege was written for the Associated Press by Lieut. Leonid Ivitch, war correspondent for the Soviet Navy's newspaper, Red Fleet, who has spent a year in the besieged city. Ivitch covered the Odessa and Murmansk fronts before going to Leningrad, where, for heroism displayed while covering the siege, he was awarded the medal called "For the Defence of Leningrad."

By LIEUT. LEONID IVITCH
LENINGRAD (AP)—Unforgettably beautiful are the buildings of Leningrad, sharply outlined against the blue-grey sky. The Pavlov fortress can be seen and at the foot of it slowly roll the heavy, grey waves of the Neva River.

The enemy, ferocious, dull and relentless, is not far off—so close that his presence here at the gates of the city can almost be physically felt.

KILLED 400,000 NAZIS

The city, which for nearly two years bravely repulsed the German hordes; the city which has ground to death at its gates more than 400,000 German soldiers, stands as previously—invincible, proud and unconquerable.

War and life are one and the same thing in this throbbing city. The sufferings of last year's winter are not yet forgotten, as they won't be for centuries to come.

To the agony of bombing and shelling which the city underwent were added the pangs of hunger. The people received only 12 grams of bread daily, but they refused to surrender. Staggering from weakness, they continued to work at their lathes and machines. Shockingly thin, pale and emaciated, they continued to erect fortifications at the city's walls on which were broken and dispersed the ferocious attacks of well-fed and picked Nazi troops.

MOST AUDACIOUS

The people are fortified in these days as always in the war by their great love for the city and immeasurable hatred for the enemy. I think they are the most audacious patriots in all Russia.

Leningrad is a city right on the front. It continues to throb with life and still is a large cultural centre. Theatres are overcrowded. Dozens of movie theatres are operating, showing the latest war pictures. Concert halls are packed.

Bookshops also are crowded and scientists, writers and poets carry on as usual. Five plays written since the city was blockaded are showing in Leningrad theatres now. Three of them are comedies, epitomizing the indomitable optimism of Leningrad people and their faith in absolute victory.

There is no doubt this city will hold out. It is not only capable of supplying the defenders with arms and ammunition produced in numerous plants working at full capacity, but it also supplies the defenders with everything else necessary to successful battle.

Streetcars run along the Prospect, which was without them in the grim winter of 1941-42 when there was no current available.

Posters on the walls call for "vigilance, stamina, firmness." At the "latest news" bulletin boards people crowd around to read communiqués from the battlefronts of the world. They know the state of affairs of the Germans is becoming worse daily. They read with satisfaction of the bombings Germany and Italy are receiving.

"Our allies are working," said a blond young fighter as he read the bulletins. He exclaimed "Khorosho," which means "well" in Russian.

Over the city the air is filled with the roar of airplane motors. Our planes are patrolling Leningrad day and night, guarding the aerial approaches to the city.

The tense rhythm of life in the frontline city doesn't stop for a single minute. Nothing can interfere, nothing can make the defenders forget the high duty resting on them.

Ex-Husband Recovers Timber Licenses

VANCOUVER (CP)—Mrs. Amyllye G. (Peggy) Cole of Seattle was ordered by Mr. Justice Sidney Smith in the B.C. Supreme Court Monday to return to her ex-husband, Howard Cole, 14 Vancouver Island timber licenses said to be worth $150,000.

Cole, who lives in New York and Palm Beach, said he bought the timber limits in 1935 for $17,500 and put them in the name of Mrs. Amyllye Cole, his sixth wife, as a matter of business convenience. Later, on the telephone instructions of Mrs. Cole, the documents were sent to her in New York by James H. Lawson, Vancouver lawyer. Mrs. Cole has maintained Cole intended them as a gift when he put them in her name.

The judge made no order as to repayment to Mrs. Cole of $4,743 she paid in fees on the licenses in 1940, for which she said she sold her jewelry. Her counsel, Alfred Bull, asked that Cole be directed to refund this sum.

Cole's suit to recover possession was started in the B.C. Supreme Court here 2½ years ago. In the meantime, Mrs. Cole assigned a 12½ per cent interest in the licenses to three Seattle attorneys who acted for her in 1940 in an abortive suit against Cole for separate maintenance while he was suing her for divorce in Florida.

See Victory Ahead

Britain Waiting Today, Confident, Determined

W. J. Haley, author of the following article, is joint managing editor of the Manchester Guardian and Evening News of Manchester, England, and a director of the Press Association and of Reuters. He returned to England recently after a six months' absence, during which he crossed the United States and the Pacific Ocean to Australia, returning by the same route. He visited centres of the Allied war effort in Hawaii, Australia and New Guinea.

By W. J. HALEY
LONDON (AP)—Britain today is a nation poised for the kill.

The people believe the most massive military operation ever undertaken in history must shortly get underway. The stage, as Gen. Marshall has said, is set. Production is in full blast. Lines of communication are established. The initiative is ours.

Anglo-American night and day precision bombing of Germany steadily increases, both in intensity and frequency.

The air of expectancy is everywhere. Sooner or later there must be a hurled at the enemy such a force as in the long run he cannot withstand.

DEEP CONFIDENCE

To an Englishman returning home after an absence abroad of nearly six months, the change is astonishing. The public mood is deeply confident, realistic, determined. The people know the road to victory will be a bitter one of tears and sweat and blood. The easy talk after the fall of Pantellera about a new technique of invasion having been evolved, in which the infantry merely walked in after it was all over, was soon discounted. It found no public acceptance or support.

Today there is none of the old wishful-thinking. The belief that the united peoples can finish the thing once and for all is the more impressive in consequence.

We know the dislocating effect the enemy's worst raids had on us, and we wonder how the Germans are faring under the tremendous barrage directed at their dispositions, their stamina and their nerves.

But we feel that however great the effect, the barrage is only the prelude to the assault.

ALL NOW GEARED

The whole nation is geared, workers are producing as never before, and fighting men are trained to that end. Therein lies another indication of the change in the British mood.

It was never perhaps possible that we should have been able to carry through without flagging the spirit of the high days after Dunkerque. No nation can live perpetually on the pinnacle. Many people from the Prime Minister and Sir Stafford Cripps down to the ordinary man in the street knew that, following the year in which we fought alone, there had to come a period when the people had a growing sense of frustration. They were not war weary. Their determination that nothing but the extermination of Hitlerism could call them to a halt never faltered. Their confidence in ultimate victory did not shake.

But even after the combination of United Nations had been brought into being, first by the Nazi attack on Russia, then by Pearl Harbor, they did not see how victory was to be brought about.

Japanese Claim Bases for Attack On Australia Ready

NEW YORK (AP)—The Japanese news agency Domei, in a broadcast from Tokyo recorded by the Associated Press today, quoted Japanese military observers as asserting Japan has completed her preparation of strategic bases from which an all-out offensive can be launched "at any moment" against Australia.

These observers, Domei said, in commenting on an imperial headquarters announcement that army planes for the first time had participated in raids on Port Darwin June 20 and June 22, declared this meant that the war in the south Pacific was entering a new phase.

Heretofore, they pointed out, Domei said, all attacks against the Australian continent by Japanese air forces had been carried out by naval units. Use of army planes, they said, indicated they had taken off from secret land bases in the southwest Pacific which have been established during the past three months.

British Plane Plants Now Outbuild Germany

LONDON (CP)—Britain alone is producing more aircraft than Germany can produce, Labor Minister Ernest Bevin said in a speech Monday.

Addressing the congress of the Women's Co-operative Guild of Labor, the minister said that thanks to the increased numbers of women workers and improved production standards the total production today was nearly double what he had estimated in 1940 it would be in 1943.

Never in history had the British nation been so well organized, making such a great effort and at the same time preserving its liberty," Mr. Bevin said.

The number of women who had poured into industry was more than 30 per cent higher than he had originally calculated, he said.

Glac Bay Miners Back at Work

GLACE BAY, N.S. (CP)—Employees of all six mines of the Glac Bay area who went on a one-day walkout Monday in sympathy with a group of striking canteen waitresses were back at work today.

Partial production was resumed in the collieries on the overnight shift, while the daytime workers returned in full numbers this morning.

The 4,000 miners staged the "holiday" to emphasize their demand for a quick settlement of a month-long strike of 12 waitresses at the Glory Cafe here. The girls walked out when one of their number was allegedly struck by a male employee of the Chinese-operated restaurant. They demanded a guarantee against any such further incidents.

New Head Named For Upper Canada

PRINCIPAL L. M. MCKENZIE

TORONTO—Board of Governors of Upper Canada College announces appointment of Lorne M. McKenzie as principal of the college. He is a native of Galt, went to school in Guelph, was graduated in 1924 from the University of Toronto. He was appointed head of the department of mathematics at Upper Canada College in its centenary year, 1929, by the late Principal W. L. Grant. In July, 1942, he took charge of the college as acting principal when Maj. T. W. L. MacDermot resigned the principalship to take up duties with the army.

Mr. McKenzie is the 12th principal in the 114 years of the life of the college, and because of his 14 years in the college he is well known to old boys, now far and wide in the services. His wife was formerly Grace I. Hood of Guelph. Their only son, David, is a pupil in the preparatory school of the college.

Preparing Blows Against Japan

SOMEWHERE IN CHINA (Delayed, AP)—Maj.-Gen. Claire L. Chennault declared today (Sunday) at his first press conference since returning from vital discussions in Washington: "I anticipate Japan will receive very heavy blows, if not decisive ones, within a reasonable time."

The general declined to specify what he meant by a reasonable time, but said "I was greatly encouraged by the attitude of the people and the authorities back home." Gen. Chennault commands the U.S. air force in China.

LONDON (CP)—The unreliable German radio reported today that an attempt had been made on the life of Gen. Alphonse Georges, a member of the French Committee of National Liberation and formerly commander of French armies facing Germany, under Gen. Maurice Gamelin. There was no Allied confirmation of the report. The Ministry of Information recorded the Nazi broadcast.

French Colonies In America Will Align With Allies

Aneta, Netherlands news agency, sent a correspondent to interview the new anti-Vichy Governor of French Guiana. He found a man busy with rehabilitation work, but confident that other French territories in the western hemisphere will eventually take their place in the fight for liberation.

By JOHAN VAN DE WALLE
Aneta Staff Correspondent
CAYENNE, FRENCH GUIANA (Aneta to CP)—The remaining French holdouts in the western hemisphere, Martinique and Guadeloupe, will eventually come over to the Allied side, Jean Alexander Rapenne, Giraud-appointed Governor of French Guiana, told me in an exclusive interview.

(Rapenne, an experienced French colonial administrator, was named Governor March 24 by Gen. Henri Giraud. But the colony had also informed Gen. Charles de Gaulle that it had broken with Vichy, and he appointed Maurice Bertaut as governor. Rapenne arrived in Cayenne two days later and took office, although his appointment was never formally ratified by De Gaulle. Bertaut was last reported in Trinidad, April 11.)

HOPE FOR MARTINIQUE

"I am sure there will come a day," Rapenne said, "when the French authorities in Martinique also will know on whose side it is their duty to fight."

He did not specifically mention Admiral Georges Robert, Governor of Martinique and Guadeloupe.

Rapenne indicated his belief that the course followed by French Guiana in overthrowing its Vichyite governing officials last March and adhering to the Allied cause, would eventually influence Martinique and Guadeloupe. He pointed out, however, that those French West Indies territories were virtually isolated from the rest of the world, and could learn of developments only by what authorities would term "illegal" means.

"Our main object," he said, "is to achieve as complete agreement and co-operation as possible with the Americans and the Allies. I am most happy to tell you this can already be said to be true. Agreement is complete, and we have succeeded in bringing about a co-operation promoting the interests of all parties, and at the same time preserving the sovereignty of France."

No Ontario Liquor Cut

TORONTO (CP)—Hon. St. Clair Gordon, chairman of the Ontario Liquor Control Board, announced today the quantity of liquor and beer which may be purchased by individuals during July will be the same as that permitted in June. The June quota was 36 pints of beer and 53 ounces of spirits per person.

Farmers for Ontario

TORONTO (CP)—A group of 100 experienced farmers from Saskatchewan arrived here today to work on Ontario farms. Among the men is William George Howard, 63, of Harris, Sask., who said he was going to help his younger brother, David Howard, 61, who farms at Downsview.

and that several gun positions were hit and a number of fires started in the Kiska camp area.

Goebbels Sets Up Nazis' 'Four Freedoms'

NEW YORK (CP)—The "four freedoms" enunciated by President Roosevelt and adopted by other United Nations leaders are freedom of speech and religion, freedom from want and fear.

The Berlin radio today broadcast Germany's "four freedoms," crediting their authorship to Propaganda Chief Goebbels. These are:

Freedom from Jewish world domination.

Freedom from the murderous system of Bolshevism.

Freedom from capitalist exploitation.

Freedom from Anglo-American imperialism.

Lightnings Attack Kiska

HEADQUARTERS, ALASKA DEFENCE COMMAND (AP)—Speedy and manoeuvrable Lightning fighters are being used to bomb Japanese anti-aircraft positions on Kiska Island in a new type of attack designed to counteract the Aleutian overcast which has hampered air attack.

The Lightnings are capable of carrying a sizeable bomb load over the short distance from the home base at Amchitka to Kiska, air force officers asserted.

The converted fighters, able to make steeper dives than regular dive bombers, can go down through the fog at high speed on the heads of the Japanese, drop their bombs and get away before enemy gunners have any chance to do any effective work, even when they know in advance that the planes are coming.

Aerial observers here reported the system wreaked havoc on Kiska placements in the last couple of raids announced in the enemy department communique.

Streetcar Men Ask Pay Increase

VANCOUVER (CP)—Representatives of the Street Railway-men's Union (A.F.L.) today sought a conference with officials of the B.C. Electric Railway Company to discuss increased wage rates for junior employees whose threat Monday to strike was described by a union official as "just talk."

Charles Stewart, union president who said the strike, if carried out, "would mean complete disorganization of the system," announced disgruntled employees at a meeting Monday night had agreed to seek the company's co-operation in an application to the Regional War Labor Board for a basic rate of 60 cents per hour plus 4½ cents bonus. The men start at 59 cents an hour and work up gradually.

"If we can't settle the matter in this manner, then the union as a whole will have to take up the matter and decide what to do," he said. "The meeting passed a motion of sympathy with the junior employees, but asked them to refrain from taking any individual or immediate action."

FORGOTTEN DIVIDENDS

From "After the War" by the Guardian
The Chancellor of the Exchequer benefits through absent-minded folk who fail to claim the dividends due on government stock, the amount thus left unclaimed by stockholders who prove untraceable being stated to average a quarter of a million a year. When Goschen made his famous conversion of the national debt in 1889 over 12,000 of the notices sent to all stockholders were returned "unknown" and after every possible inquiry had been made $7,850,000 remained unclaimed.

The five most common causes of the deaths of school children in the United States are, in the order named, accidents, appendicitis, influenza and pneumonia, rheumatic fever and tuberculosis.

Facts Will Not Down

UNDOUBTEDLY VICTORIA HAS RECEIVED some adverse publicity as a result of figures recently published by the officials of the Pacific Command. These related to venereal disease and the alleged operation of houses of ill repute within the territorial confines of this municipality. At its meeting yesterday afternoon the City Council had before it a communication from the Women's Missionary Society of Centennial Church and this, apparently, furnished the text for a renewal of the discussion of this vexed problem. While the letter may not have imparted much new or novel to an old complaint, it evoked comments from several aldermen, some with a familiar ring, and at least one which reflected a mid-Victorian outlook. Alderman Williams is reported to have said:

"If we say we are endeavoring to eradicate the evil, we admit it exists. . . the council is not doing a thing . . . we are putting it in the hands of the police."

In our judgment the worst kind of publicity which the capital city of this province could get would be the publication far and wide of the first part of the observation we have quoted. Time was, of course, when tuberculosis belonged to the category of human ailments only to be alluded to in whispers—if at all. Not until a comparatively short time ago did courageous souls begin to explain to a timid public the horrible dangers attendant on this ostrich-like attitude toward a disease then taking its toll of human lives by the million. It is not necessary at this late stage to elaborate the effect which the full light of publicity had on the world-wide war against what for long had been known as the "white plague." The earlier crusaders had won a great victory over the forces of stupidity and ignorance. Education, preventive technique, and the exchange of defeatism for an intelligent offensive have brought tuberculosis under control. But only by continuously exercising the will to eradicate one of the worst wasting diseases known to mankind, by recognizing the basic fact that it existed, by giving full publicity to a condition—not treating it as a theory—did an unsuspecting public awaken to the lurking danger in its midst.

What applied and still applies to tuberculosis applies with equal force to venereal disease. If all those people in Canada who read the figures supplied by the officials of the Pacific Command are now to be told, for example, that the city council realizes the threat of this disease to the young life of the community and intends to take every conceivable means to eradicate it, then, and make no mistake about it, the ensuing publicity will herald to far horizons the dawn of local progressivism in health matters. But for the love of all that is sensible let us take our heads out of the sand and face facts.

Cologne Again

ONLY A TRIFLE MORE THAN A YEAR ago the great Rhinish city of Cologne suffered the heaviest aerial blow of the war up till that time. More than 1,000 heavy and medium bombers rained death and destruction which paralyzed a great part of the vital industrial area and rendered thousands homeless. This was really the first concentrated installment of the promise of Bomber Command to "scourge the Reich from end to end." Since then, of course, this ancient metropolis of the Rhine has sustained several heavy attacks. Last night, both R.A.F. and R.C.A.F. organizations chalked up the 117th visit on a concentrated scale. Cologne must be in a sorry state.

This latest attack is perhaps important not so much for its further punishment of the remnants of its varied industrial establishments as for the new disturbance it has caused to its vast communication networks—both land and river. When the Allied invasion begins, and by virtue of the tremendous devastation already caused to the German railway system and rolling stock, transportation of troops and supplies will have to depend more than ever on the waterways of which the Rhine is the most valuable from the general utility standpoint. All this, however, is something for Hitler and his gang to worry about. Bomber Command's Air Chief Marshal Harris is merely implementing his promise of more than a year ago—and he is doing it thoroughly.

New Priority System

OTTAWA HAS ANNOUNCED A NEW and simplified priority procedure, called the program classification system, which is designed to replace the allocation classification system, abandoned at the end of last year because of its unwieldiness.

The new program classification system, which went into effect June 7, has only 24 classifications as compared with more than 300 subdivisions for identification of purchase orders under the old allocation classification system. It applies to every business or industrial purchaser of goods or commodities valued at $25 or more with the exception of retailers, and also exempts certain transactions such as purchases from public utilities, at auctions, on organized exchanges and of raw commodities prior to processing, as well as payments for services.

While the A.C.S. program extended to purchases both in Canada and the United States, the new procedure applies only to the Dominion. United States preference ratings within Canada will be abolished and applications for priority on American products will now be made only by those companies which themselves import critical materials—steel, copper and aluminum—direct. The A.C.S. plan was devised in the United States but is no longer in use.

The new program will be used by the government in the distribution of critical materials to war and essential civilian industries and to obtain the information needed to present material requirements to the United States and to make priority applications for domestic goods.

The Great Adventure

FROM VARIOUS AUTHORITATIVE sources the general public is learning that chemists have developed a whole series of new materials, ranging from the light metals down through plywood and plastics, and each of these will compete with the others for specialized uses. One British authority on plastics, for example, lists no fewer than 150 different varieties already in use; and he adds that if expert imagination were given full rein, it could give a complete tabulation of this commodity's potentialities that would be at least a mile long—a bright and challenging prospect.

Such possibilities as the foregoing have induced Life magazine, in its current issue, to editorialize on the basic proposal that "when the boys come home we must be prepared to offer them a big industrial adventure." With commendable forthrightness, moreover, the well-known weekly delves far below the surface in order to illuminate for its readers how the foundation for "future jobs" may be well and truly laid. It says in part:

"It is true that, to bring about this new age, we must make the right domestic moves to liberate the forces of American enterprise. But to do this successfully we must also understand that, in terms of foreign policy, the scope of our self-interest is virtually world-wide. If we try to keep ourselves locked-up, behind our oceans we shall fall in two ways."

"First, our domestic market will not prove big enough in the long run and so the inventions will not get developed—labor and industry might even oppose them. And, secondly, we would not be able to keep everything at work in order to bring about the new age we must, so to speak, open up the world. Instead of relying solely upon our own purchasing power we must find ways to increase the purchasing power of peoples outside of America."

"Basically, this means an enormous increase in the flow of foreign trade in both directions. It means that we must, at one and the same time, open up our own markets and build up the markets of others. Only thus can we hope to get the full benefit of these inventions of ours."

Life's editor Luce, husband of Congresswoman Clare Booth Luce of "globaloney" fame, would seem to have embraced the over-all philosophy, in some respects at least, to be found between the covers of Wendell Willkie's "One World." The editorial does more than this, however. It has dressed up with plastic modernity the doctrine which Mr. Cordell Hull has preached in season and out for many years—the doctrine which has been operative in his Reciprocal Trade Agreements Act since 1934. And perhaps now that its simple lesson has obtained the endorsement of a popular and expensively produced weekly, there is hope that even the die-hard economic isolationists will gain fresh courage.

Our Grain Situation

PRELIMINARY REPORTS INDICATE that weather conditions have prevented Canadian farmers from carrying out the wheat-sowing program in full, with the result that the reduction in wheat acreage, estimated at 20,000,000 acres, as against approximately 17,000,000 acres last year, will probably be even greater than originally expected. Unofficial estimates put the area in wheat this year at about 16,000,000 acres.

It is anticipated, however, that the reduction in wheat will be offset by increases in oats and barley acreage, even beyond the former estimates, since there was sufficient time to put in the increased area; and there is a strong demand from the United States for Canadian feed grains. In addition, most farmers have a considerable carry-over of wheat from the 1942 crop and are reasonably sure of having available all the wheat it will be possible to dispose of during the new crop year.

Grain deliveries in Canada may be somewhat hampered by shortage of elevator space and transportation facilities. It is reported that the Canadian Wheat Board, in order to carry out the undertaking to allow farmers to deliver 280,000,000 bushels of wheat during the current crop year, may have to put some restrictions on loading of oats and barley. This is despite the fact that the demand for feed grains from the United States, particularly oats, is greater than can be satisfied on account of current transportation bottlenecks. This demand is expected to continue. There is also sufficient domestic wheat demand to take care of new deliveries by farmers, practically all of which are sold on the open market at prices above those obtainable from the Wheat Board.

Oats and barley prices have remained at ceiling levels, while wheat prices have fluctuated around the dollar mark. The price of rye, which is not under ceiling control, has shown a further advance, due to increased demand for feeding in the United States.

Freedom was doomed in France, anyway. The press was no longer free, but was prostituted to anybody who would pay.

Mme. Chiang Kai-shek in the printed record of her address to the members of Parliament at Ottawa introduced some rarely-used words. She said democracy should not be confused with "ochlocracy" and described Germany as an "immane" dictatorship. According to the dictionary, "ochlocracy" means mob rule and "immane" in an archaic sense means gigantic or cruel.

Bruce Hutchison

CURIOUS VIEW

THE VANCOUVER CITY COUNCIL has recently illustrated a profound fact. It is dreadfully upset because the Trans-Canada Airways have placed their repair shops at New Westminster instead of Vancouver. It is even a little annoyed that the Trans-Canada planes fly to Victoria for fear that the shops may even be moved here sometime or that Victoria may get some more business.

These are the same gentlemen, no doubt, who are urging a brave new world after the war, who are subscribing to resolutions in favor of world peace and especially to resolutions in favor of world trade. But only if they protect the special interests of Vancouver.

This, on a small scale, is the same process which afflicts the whole world. Everywhere men pass resolutions in favor of collective security, of the Atlantic Charter of freely-moving trade. But as soon as such a policy threatens to close down a local pickle factory or to open a pickle factory in the next town, they immediately object. They want the Atlantic Charter for everyone else but themselves.

It is very difficult to argue against this policy and almost impossible politically for the local politician to oppose it. The politician who rises above the pickle factory is rare indeed and if he does he will not rise or stay up long. He will be pulled down at the next election on grounds of highest patriotism because he has betrayed his local bailiwick.

OURSELVES FIRST

THIS IS BECAUSE people's attention, quite naturally, is concentrated on their own surroundings. A pickle factory in your own town looks more important than the whole wheat industry of the prairies. We follow the theory that we must first look after ourselves, our own local and selfish interests. The larger causes of world commerce and world peace will look after themselves.

The fact that this theory has been completely discredited in the last 20 years, the fact that, in looking after our own local interests we lost our shirts, does not alter the general attitude. If New Westminster is going to get a machine shop, the Vancouver politician springs to arms in defence of his city; just as the alderman will defend his own ward and finally every man will defend his own job even if it means disorganizing the whole economy.

We may expect this instinct to exercise a profound effect on Canadian politics during the next few years. It will not be confined to the machine shops and pickle factories. It will spread clear across the nation. For it is perfectly obvious that if we are to build a sound economy in Canada (and this has nothing to do with the current struggle between private initiative and socialism) we must make many readjustments and accept various local sacrifices. We must close down certain industries which are uneconomical in order to maintain and expand the economic industries.

ONE CHANCE

We shall have one chance to do this after the war and only one in our generation. If it is lost then, it will not return for a long time. The reason is obvious: After the war the whole economy of Canada will undergo a complete organic transformation from top to bottom as the war industries close down. It can be rebuilt on one of two principles—the principle of foreign trade or the principle of self-containment.

If it is built on the principle of self-containment, if the great industries are given heavy tariff protection and build their plans on that promise, if we erect a new industrial system under tariffs, we shall not rebuild it in this generation. Having gone through the wringer twice in the course of a few years—the mobilization of the war and the demobilization of the postwar—our industries will not be asked and cannot be asked to go through it a third time when the government decides a few years hence to take the tariffs down and start all over again. The decision in favor of trade or self-containment must be made immediately after the war and, indeed, during the war.

Everybody favors trade at the moment. Even the Conservative Party has repudiated its basic policy and has added the name Progressive to prove that it means business when it attacks tariffs. But as soon as you get down from the abstract to the concrete, as soon as you propose to do anything which seems to damage a local community, the pickle-factory mind goes to work. Vancouver is appalled at the movement of one machine shop. What kind of protests shall we hear when it is proposed perhaps to close down a whole community where a war industry could be converted to the making of pickles, provided it had tariff protection and a government subsidy?

We had better be ready for the pickle makers and we had better be ready in every part of Canada for temporary sacrifices to secure a larger good in the future. If we are not ready when the war is over, we had better stop talking about the Atlantic Charter and get down to solid preparations for the next war.

Medical Services In Wartime

Winnipeg Free Press Editorial

WORD COMES from Victoria that the navy proposes to build a $500,000 hospital at Royal Roads. The decision, if acted upon, will emphasize all the worst features of our wartime medical policy. The government behaves as if the supply of skilled medical knowledge in Canada was unlimited. It has drawn into the three armed services a large proportion of our available medical skill, leaving a dangerous shortage in Canada as a whole. Nobody seeks to deprive our soldiers, sailors and airmen of the best possible medical skill, but this business of setting up separate medical centres for treating the armed forces is wasteful, inefficient, and defeats the very end it seeks to serve.

ALTHOUGH THE situation locally—based on the expansion of the Deer Lodge Military Hospital—is bad enough, as has been pointed out more than once in these columns, the way things have developed at Victoria is even worse. Not long after the outbreak of war the Victoria civic hospital offered to expand its facilities in order to take care of all the medical and surgical treatment needed by the armed forces. The advantage of such a course was obvious; it would mean very substantial economies in construction; it would eliminate the duplication of expensive and scarce technical equipment such as laboratory service, X-ray, and so on; most of all, it would mean that there would be a pooling of the most important element of all in medical treatment, a pooling of medical skill, the rarest of all the components of complete treatment of sick and injured men.

This offer was turned down by the Department of Defence, and the result was that the Normal School was taken over and turned into a makeshift hospital, the naval hospital at Esquimalt was enlarged, and a small hospital was built for the air force at Patricia Bay. What was the result? Dissipation of skill. Specialists who had abandoned their private practice in order to enlist found themselves doing work which any doctor could do; others found themselves separated from the numerous technical services which make first-class treatment possible; each small hospital found itself unable to give, within itself, the service which one big hospital could give. Inevitably this means a poorer service for every patient involved. Now, to this incompetent set-up is to be added the construction of another large half-million dollar unit at Royal Roads, where precisely the same handicaps will be encountered. The unintelligence which has marked the development at Victoria and Winnipeg is now being expanded and threatens to become more permanent.

THE ESSENCE of good medical treatment is proximity of the patients to the nearest large available centre of medical knowledge, preferably, of course, a medical school. This is the essence of the local case against Deer Lodge. Victoria has no medical school, but it contains a number of first-class medical men whose work is concentrated at the large civilian hospitals. It is impossible to make these men's skills available over a number of separated hospitals, and the proposed hospital at Royal Roads will be miles out of Victoria. So long as the war continues it may well be that many very good doctors will be available to the armed services. These men have enlisted for patriotic reasons. But it is most unlikely, once the war is over, that they will remain in the services. They will return to private practice. What, then, will be the fate of the disabled men sent to Royal Roads? Obviously they will not receive the treatment possible for them if they were in a hospital which was part of a larger medical centre. They will suffer, and some of them will die, because they do not get the best possible treatment; and this will be their let because the Department of Defence mistakenly thinks that a policy has been devised which will provide them with the best possible care. Bricks and mortar are not the essentials of a cure for wounds or illness. Medical skill is. The policy now being carried out is short-sighted and ill-based.

THIS ATTITUDE is now held only by a small group in Canada. But it is also the opinion of expert observers in the United States, one of whom recently wrote as follows:

"While it is easy to assign good doctors to army hospitals during the war, I am convinced that after the war it is going to be difficult to staff such hospitals with the excellent surgeons and medical men whom we would like to have care for these patients. In close proximity to a good teaching medical centre I do not believe this would be so difficult, particularly if the men working in such government hospitals could have the privileges of more rapid learning, expert counsel and advice in the performance of their work."

Months ago, the Canadian Department of Defence announced that an over-all survey of our medical and hospital needs, both military and civilian, was being made. Its results were to be published early in May. Not a word has come from Ottawa since that time. It would be interesting to know if the point of view expressed in these columns has found any support from the authors of the survey, or if the present government policy has found complete endorsement.

Presbyterian executive Friday afternoon, when this group met for the last time prior to the summer recess. President Mrs. W. H. Muncy was in the chair, having recently returned from attending Dominion board meetings in Toronto. The possibility of establishing a night school course in Bible study was discussed and also the problem of the East Indian work. Plans for the fall rally to be held Sept. 8 in Victoria West United Church were made. Interesting features are being arranged. Letters of sympathy were sent to Miss E. Harie and Mrs. Walter Allison. The new supply secretary, Mrs. J. D. Wilson, reported a generous response to the appeals from her department, and sales were being packed for shipment. Knees Unlocked from RHEUMATIC Pains

Do you know anyone who suffers from rheumatic pains. If you do, show them this letter from Mrs. Angus:

"Since coming here from England 10 years ago, I have suffered terribly from rheumatic pains. I have been in hospital, and spent money to no end. I have bought medicine, lotions, liniments, and taken advertised concoctions until I was weary. I heard of Kruschen Salts so often, that I thought one day I'd try them. By this time my knees had become locked, as if in cement.

"Well, I bought a bottle of Kruschen, and took a teaspoonful every morning. When the bottle was finished I said, 'Oh, it's the same as everything else; I'm no better.' But my husband said 'persevere; try another! Give it a chance to act on your blood.' Well, I got another, and before it was finished my knees unlocked—honestly they did. I could hardly believe it myself when I could stoop down and get up again without help. I was so excited about it. I kept on, took another bottle, and believe me I am not like the same woman. I walked four miles the other day and felt fine, whereas before I could hardly walk across the floor."—(Mrs.) E. Angus.

What more need be said to convince other sufferers? At any rate, they should give Kruschen a trial. Ask your druggist for Kruschen Salts, 25c and 75c.

Kin of Prisoners In Unique Club Pool Letters

LEEDS, Eng. (CP)—When the Prisoners of War Club was formed here two years ago, eight women attended the opening meeting. Today the club has taken on the proportions of a great social experiment.

(In Canada the Prisoners of War Relatives' Association, with its headquarters in Montreal, is an affiliate of the Yorkshire organization and has branches in every Canadian province.)

Sponsored by the Yorkshire Evening News, the P.O.W. Club was organized to help the prisoners and their relatives at home. There now are 15 clubs throughout the county, attended by the relatives of over 1,000 Yorkshire prisoners of war.

The Leeds Club, which is the biggest, meets twice a week, and the attendance varies from 500 to 600. At the meetings the women divide themselves into "camps." Those who have sons, husbands or sweethearts in the Stalag VIII B, for instance, sit together and exchange news, letters and snapshots.

Prisoners are allowed to send only two letters and four post cards a month, all of which are rigidly censored by the Nazis. These letters, moreover, take as much as three months in transit. Anxiety among the relatives, caused by this scarcity of mail, has been partly alleviated by the club. Mrs. Jones and Mrs. Gray are now immediately informed when Mrs. Brown gets a letter like this from her son, "My pal, David Jones, and I share our parcels. Bill Gray, who used to live in Delph Lane, is here, too."

ECHO OF SINGAPORE

When Singapore fell, the club was besieged by relatives, frantic for information about men who had been listed as missing. Official information was practically non-existent. The relatives were asked to join the club. Here they talked with other women whose boys had been missing for 12 or perhaps 18 months, and who had eventually been reported prisoners of war. Slowly these new members became less distraught and found courage to face the long uncertainty.

The club has organized packing centres where full-time volunteer workers now dispatch four "Next-of-Kin" parcels a year to every prisoner registered with the club.

PACKING AND SENDING

Sending a parcel to a prisoner of war is not a simple matter. Numerous official regulations must be observed; the parcel must not weigh more than 11 pounds including packing; the contents must be packed so that they can be easily inspected; the packing must be efficient.

The P.O.W. packing centres relieve relatives of all these worries and help them financially. Next-of-kin parcels contain socks, sweaters, scarfs, gloves and cigarettes, all supplied free by the club, in addition to personal gifts that the relatives wish to include.

Arion Club Looks Back Upon Active 50 Years' Record

The Arion Club, oldest male choir in Canada, being now in its 51st season, held its annual business meeting and smoker last night in the clubrooms, Douglas Street.

Kyle W. Symons was elected president by acclamation as club members voted the following officers for the 1943-44 season: Sam Clegg, vice-president; Lieut. P. H. Hughes, R.C.N.V.R., conductor; B. C. Bracewell, assistant conductor; R. H. Reeve, secretary; Sydney White, financial secretary and treasurer; David Stewart, librarian; J. Conolly, assistant librarian; Harry A. Cox, auditor; George Goodwin and George Guy, music committee; Dr. K. Wright and C. F. Wharton, management committee.

Frank Sehl, past president for two years, was eloquent in his appreciation of the support given him in all undertakings, especially in "the great venture of celebrating the 50th anniversary."

He referred to the successful concert given at the Royal Victoria Theatre under the auspices of the Kinsmen Club and in aid of the "Milk for Britain Fund." The celebration was made even happier, he said, by the good wishes received from similar fraternities, the presence of Patsy Swift, a Victoria girl, as guest artist, and Keith Littleton, now of Seattle, a charter member. It was on this occasion, he reminded members, that Herbert Kent received a presentation as only active charter member.

"Faithful and indefatigable in her work with the club"—with this tribute to Mrs. C. C. Warn, pianist, Mr. Sehl thanked her on behalf of the club, saying the whole choir had received inspiration from her playing.

He spoke also of the excellent co-operation of other members, including Fred Wright, Sidney White, Kyle Symons and Tom Kelway.

In closing his presidential address, Mr. Sehl welcomed the newly-elected officers and wished them all success in the coming year.

"May you keep alive the traditions of the club until brighter times come with complete victory over our enemies," he concluded.

Frank Shandley, retiring treasurer, submitted a report on the finances of the club, showing that total receipts during the year amounted to $1,680.57. Expenses deducted, the bank balance is $674.23. The concert in celebration of the Arion Club's 50th anniversary netted a profit of $150.09, to be turned over to the Kinsmen Club for the "Milk for Britain" Fund.

A letter was read from Harold L. Campbell, municipal inspector of schools, requesting Mr. Sehl and one other member of the Arion Club to give an addition to the High School's choir of 63 boys, aged from 16 to 18 years.

The great variety revealed by the season's public performances is evidence of the wide appeal made by the Arion Club and its 60 voices. A concert at the Empress Hotel, the twilight recital at First Baptist Church, the Royal Victoria concert for the anniversary celebration, and another for a troop show, a concert at Athletic Park, and a radio concert over CJVI in aid of the Fourth Victory Loan—and in addition the club held 33 practices and one special rehearsal.

R. H. Reeves, secretary, reported that the total attendance for the 40 gatherings was 1,259 members.

A short resume of the book he is writing on the history of the Arion Club was given by Herbert Kent after the business session, during which time refreshments were enjoyed.

Toronto Girl Sets Great Batting Pace

CHICAGO (CP)—Gladys (Terrie) Davis of Toronto, pretty shortstop for the Rockford team in the All-American Girls Softball League, holds the batting leadership with an average of .387 despite a drop of 31 points during a recent 14-game road trip. Dorothy Maguire of Racine was runner-up with .355.

The Toronto player also leads in hits with 43, is tied with teammate Mildred Warwick of Regina in most triples—each having five—and tied with outfielder Darlene Mickelsen of Kenosha in runs batted in with 24.

Most of the other 12 Canadian girls in the four-time glamour circuit figured prominently in the first 30-day games.

Southpaw Doris Barr, with seven wins against two defeats, ranked fourth among pitchers and fifth among batters with an average of .333. Barr and Margaret Berger of Homestead, Fla., who has eight wins against two losses are the chief reasons for South Bend pacing the league. South Bend has won 19 games and lost 14.

Olive Little of Poplar Point, Man., was sixth-ranking pitcher, having hurled six of Rockford's 13 victories and lost four games. Her batting average was .205. Catherine Bennett of Regina

Gyros Stage Annual Solarium Carnival

Victoria citizens in the thousands will be invited to play penny pitch and bingo; take pony rides and dance—and all in aid of a good cause, when the Gyro Club open their fourth annual Solarium Carnival and hole-in-one contest at Central Junior High School grounds Wednesday, for a four-day stay.

The carnival will be staged each evening, Wednesday, June 30, to Saturday, July 3, at the Central Junior High grounds, upper Yates St.

A 25c ticket purchased on the grounds or from any Gyro member will entitle visitors to three chances on the daily tombola prizes of five $5 War Savings Certificates and three chances on any one of the many games and sports offered.

All proceeds raised will be in aid of the Solarium and Gyro members have asked Victoria to turn out en masse to have "an evening of fun and at the same time help some little lame child to walk again."

A highlight of the summer carnival will be the hole-in-one contest which will be played on a professional green. For 25 cents visitors may have three shots for the grand prize of a $100 war bond. Second prize will be a $50 bond and third, a $20 war savings certificate. There will be daily prizes of $10 and $5 certificates and anyone sinking a hole-in-one will be rewarded with a $10 bill.

Dancing, bingo, crown and anchor, over and under, penny pitch, claim staking, pony ride, roulette wheels and tombola are among the carnival games set up and ready for amusing the Victoria public from Wednesday to Saturday.

"Come and bring your friends to the Central High grounds," is the Victoria Gyro watchword for the carnival, June 30 to July 3.

Gyro Club Formed For Companionship

Victoria Gyro Club is an organization founded simply for friendship. Following the charter of all Gyro Clubs its members all local businessmen, meet once a week just for the enjoyment and companionship of being together. Each year since they were Queen Alexandra Solarium is on Malahat Beach, 30 miles from Victoria. Children from all parts of Vancouver Island, the mainland, and Gulf Islands are treated daily, and of the 100 patients admitted last year 95 were discharged, with 35 complete cures—and remarkable improvement in almost every other case. School classes are carried on so that the children may keep up with their studies while they are being healed. An outdoor salt water swimming pool, and a fresh water pool and playground built and donated by the Gyro Club of Nanaimo, provide both medical treatment and fun for the youngsters.

Inaugurated in 1931 they have fostered some benefit to aid a chosen organization on the island.

The first year they assisted the Protestant Orphanage . . . then for three years during the depression collected the fund that helped many unfortunate families at Christmas time, with the Christmas Hamper Fund. Another project of the club was a room at the Royal Jubilee Hospital in memory of Gyro Jack Bartholemew.

This year marks the fourth in which their support has gone to the Queen Alexandra Solarium, with funds raised from the Carnival and Hole-in-One Contest. The first year netted $1,100, with succeeding years bringing $1,200 and $1,700.

Gyros have set themselves a goal of $5,000—and feel that their support has never been needed more than now. The Solarium staff's battle to save little children's lives goes on year after year, through peacetime and war.

Asks Public's Support

Capt. Louis Glazan, president of the Victoria Gyro Club, sent this message to the citizens of Victoria:—

"I realize that the war effort must come first and I urge you to maintain your utmost endeavor in this direction.

"However, we must not forget the splendid work of the Solarium in its constant battle against the ravages of disease among little children.

"This World War will end, but unfortunately, disease, and the pain and sorrow it brings, will go on. That is why I am asking the people of Victoria to join the Gyros again, this fourth year, in supporting the Hole-in-One Contest and Carnival where every cent spent at the many attractions will go toward helping the Solarium to continue its excellent work."

City-Built Glider Nears Completion

The Victoria and Island Gliding and Soaring Club, Incorporated, is rapidly completing the first primary training craft, Ald. B. J. Gadsden said today. The wings are now being covered with fabric and will then be given three coats of dope and silvered. The old Packard car that was presented to the club by the City Council is being reconstructed for towing. The machines into the air, by the G. B. Murdie Machine Works, and the prospects of the members receiving field training at an early date are in sight. The manager, J. B. Taylor, is receiving an R.C.A.F. flying course at Medicine Hat, Alberta, and will be back to assume direction of activities next week. All members are asked to attend on Tuesday and Thursday nights at the hangar, 1407 Broad, at 8.

Ambitious Vic College Girls Making $23 to $40 a Week In Alberni Plywood Mills

By KAY McINTYRE and MARGE McDOUGALL

PORT ALBERNI—Go north, young girl, and get yourself a job in a plywood mill if you're after wartime work with good pay, an amiable boss and pleasant surroundings.

Not so far north, either, for here in this bustling port to which war has brought boom days are some Victoria College students earning expense money in their summer holidays alongside their older sisters who have traded offices and stores for wartime industry.

Down at Alberni Plywood Ltd., known to everyone as A.P.L., we found tall, smiling Al Hendry, foreman of the afternoon shift on which most Victorians were working at the time. Morning shift, he explained, runs from 8 a.m. to 4.30 p.m., afternoon shift from 4.30 p.m. to 12.30, and graveyard from 12.30 a.m. to 8 a.m.

"How do we like having girls?" said Mr. Hendry, starting to show us around. "They're fine.

In fact they do everything except the really heavy jobs.

"We have just one kick—absenteeism," he continued. "Girls have less hesitation in taking time off, especially these days. Boy friends home on leave is one of the big reasons."

ON THE PRODUCTION LINE

Victorians we met this evening who had recently exchanged gay skirts, sweaters, ankle socks and worn-out saddle shoes for sturdy denim overalls, were Faith Woodward, Petra Ansdem, Edna White, Alice Tourtellotte, Tanis Martin, Margaret Lowe, Madlyn Foster.

"Trade specialization and assembly line production were just names to us in business economics," Edna White told us, during a pause in her work at a trim saw. "Now we really know what it's all about."

Wearing white coveralls and a bright bandanna on her hair, she spoke enthusiastically about the light, clean work, and was quick to disagree, when we said plywood looked heavy to lift. Edna and her friend, Petra Ansdem, guide the wood through the saw, trimming off uneven edges, then lift it on high piles, ready for building.

"Petra and I are taller than the other girls," Edna said smilingly, "so we were chosen for this work."

Not quite decided about what she will do on returning to Victoria in September, Edna is pleased with her new experience, and remarked about the time passing more quickly than in school.

WORKS UP

Blonde, 17-year-old Petra Ansdem, who looks like the Vikings from whom she is descended, took time off from the trim saw, too, to tell us she has worked up from bundling, grading and a job on the sanders in the past month. Her mother, who hails from Copenhagen, taught school in Port Alberni before she married and went to England, where Petra's father is a government employee. Now an evacuee and back in Canada for the duration, she has her old job in Port Alberni.

Meanwhile Petra attends Victoria College in the winter, and her brother the University of Manitoba. Petra, who has lost her English accent during her three-year stay in this country, looks forward to the day when she sets foot in England once more but plans to take her degree in modern languages at University of Toronto, first.

"This is a good way to spend the summer," she said. We change around in our jobs and never get fed up with any one. At first we all complained of standing, and our feet bothered us, but no one notices it now."

THREE MORE

Further down the factory, guided through piles of lumber and roaring machines by the good-natured foreman, we met three more Victoria girls who were busy piling and wrapping the plywood in huge bundles ready for shipping.

Alice Tourtellotte, a slim, dark girl with an infectious grin, talked excitedly about her job and the fun they were having with a newly-found gang of young people, met through the United Church in Alberni.

"This is a grand place for a holiday," she said. "Most of us have bikes, and on our days off we take trips. Last Sunday we went up to Sprout Lake and the swimming there is wonderful."

All of the Victorians, she told us, have visited Stamp Falls and are still praising its wonders. In fact, it's their favorite spot for picnics and they never miss an opportunity to go there.

DANCING TO MART KENNY'S ORCHESTRA

Alice will return to Victoria College in the fall, to train as a lab technician, as will Madlyn Foster, who was working on the day shift. Madlyn handles a green saw, used for cutting wood for the centre of plywood.

Tanis Martin, who plans to enter a Victoria hospital for training in the fall, operates a dry clip for evening the broken ends of wood, sorted from whole pieces in a previous operation.

We found Faith Woodward in the bundling section, packaging plywood for shipment abroad. A potential history teacher, Faith took off her heavy gloves while she talked about her work and plans for the next college term.

Port Alberni night life is all-right, according to Faith and her friends. Mart Kenny and his orchestra had paid a visit to town the week before and there are always a good many dances. Shows are popular with the girls, too, but they wish there weren't so many they've seen before in Victoria.

MAKING REAL MONEY

Base rate at the plywood mill, Mr. Hendry explained, is 50 cents an hour and the girls make anywhere from $23 a week to the few in the top brackets who average between $35 and $40 a week. Many of the college students prefer their jobs in Port Alberni because their work is clean, even if the pay is not as high as in some other war industries.

Margaret Lowe, a first-year student at Victoria College, said she hoped to clear $200 in the four months she will be in Port Alberni. Board at the home of Mrs. E. J. Mills, where she shares a room with two other girls, takes up $32 a month.

Two-thirds of the employees, the foreman said, are girls. Once a lathe peels wood from the logs in varying thicknesses, these sheets known as veneer, are sorted according to type and thickness on an assembly line by girls. Girls, too, inspect them for flaws, turn those that are faulty over to patch cutters who remove the defect. One of the Victorians, Phyllis Pritchard, who operates a patch cutter, was in Victoria at the time with an injured hand.

Highest paid girls in the mill are those engaged in cross-banding—putting together sheets of veneer before they are subjected to pressing panels.

The girls laughed when asked if their boy friends were missing them, and one answered "I guess they're too busy to bother—most of them are working in the shipyards."

Like the troops, they all look forward to letters from home. For many it's the first time they've been away for longer than a week or so, and mail means a lot.

"Tell anyone we know," they said, "they can always get in touch with us through General Delivery, Port Alberni."

The Hard-of-Hearing Club will be shown motion pictures Wednesday evening by George Alexander of the fisheries department at the clubrooms, 1416 Douglas Street, at 8.15. Hard-of-hearing visitors will be welcome to listen to the program over the group-hearing-aid.

3 Subs Built Here In 10 Days

A Victoria shipbuilding firm in the last two weeks has beaten the all-time high record of America's "miracle man," Henry J. Kaiser. Kaiser's greatest achievement was the production of a 10,000-ton "Liberty" ship in four days. Three men at Yarrow's Limited have completely built three submarines in 10 days!

These mass-production undersea "battleships" will be displayed to the public next week. They will be used in conjunction with the "Stamp Out the U-Boat campaign!" a Dominion-wide drive to sell enough war savings stamps to buy 15,000 depth charges for the Royal Canadian Navy's fighting ships. The national quota is $1,350,000, of which Victoria is asked to produce $15,750. That means 175 of the deadly "ash cans," each one costing $90.

The record-smashing submarines will be placed on downtown streets and the public is invited to inspect them. The conning towers invite special attention because in them will be constructed booths to sell war savings stamps. And with each purchase of four 25 cent stamps, the buyer will be given a "stampogram" on which he can write a "personal greeting" to the Axis. These "greetings" will be attached to a tally sheet which, when full, will bear 90 of them, representing the cost of one depth charge. The tally sheet will eventually be attached to real depth charges used in action by one of R.C.N.'s ships, so that the messages will really be given "special delivery" to Hitler.

British Columbia products have been used in the construction of the mass-production subs. Of what are they built? Hemlock two-by-fours and paper-mache!

TWO-THIRDS of the total number of loans outstanding in Canada's Chartered Banks average less than $500 per loan.

Through bank loans, Canada's Chartered Banks help Canadians to benefit themselves, their fellows and their country. Many of these loans are small—but all contribute their share to the day-by-day activities of Canadian enterprise.

Some further facts about Canada's Banks:

Chartered Banks' loans related to agriculture as shown on the last official return to Parliament, totalled $340,118,473. This sum included loans to farmers, ranchers, fruit raisers and to grain dealers and grain exporters.

Every general manager today heading a Chartered Bank entered the bank as a junior in some small branch.

Up to and including February, 1943, no fewer than 6803 men and 154 women bank employees had enlisted in the armed forces.

CHEMISTRY HELPS TO WIN THE WAR

Molybdenum, Manganese, Tungsten, Mercury, Magnesium

● Vitrally needed as materials of war, these strategic minerals have not only been discovered in Canada, but production of them is steadily increasing . . . helping to tip the war production balance in favour of the United Nations.

Contributing to the finding of these strategic minerals are many factors: the courage and initiative of our geologists and prospectors, the enterprise and "know-how" of Canadian mining men, and the active encouragement of the Canadian government. To all of these Canada is indebted for her new mineral strength.

It was not enough to find these minerals. There had to be a force that would tear them out of the rock where they have been locked for many ages. Fortunately, that force was available in modern explosives.

Canada's war production will not want for supplies of strategic minerals. From coast to coast come reports of expanding production. Highlighting the list of developments which are helping to win the war are: tungsten on the Emerald Property in British Columbia

. . . molybdenum in Preissac Township, Quebec . . . magnesium at Renfrew, Ontario . . . mercury at Pinchi Lake, British Columbia. Other developments are producing manganese, tin, chromite and more tungsten.

Explosives to speed the production of strategic minerals is another example of a product of Industrial Chemistry which helps Canada's war effort.

New Equipment for R.C.A.F. Crews In Emergencies

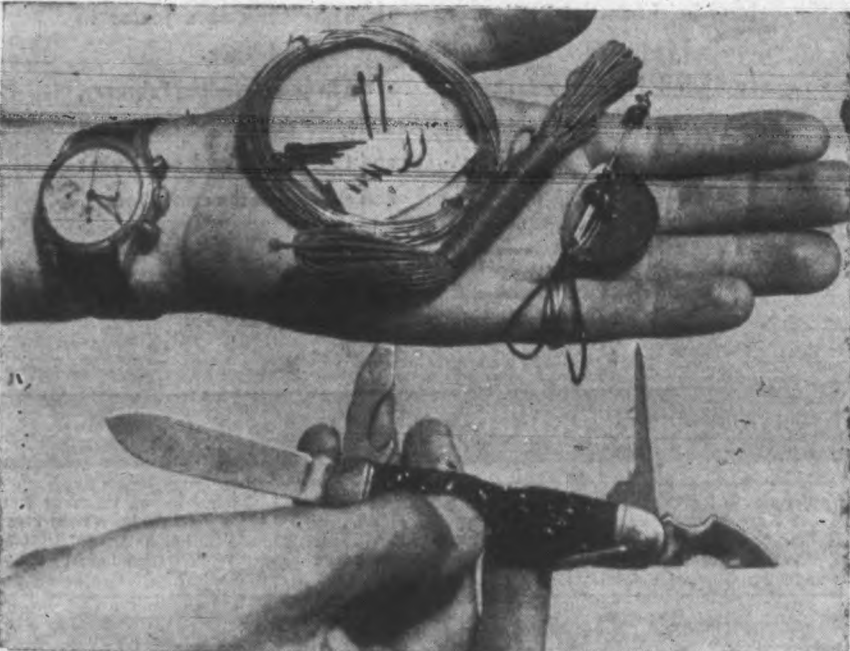

For emergency signalling a Very pistol. Filt. Lt. Cowans shows how it is fired.

Kit for an emergency. Beside food it contains cooking utensils, flashlight, matches, candles, a clasp knife, shotgun shells and a shotgun, held here by Filt. Lt. 'Mickey' McGuire of Vancouver. There is an axe too, such as that handled by Filt. Lt. John Cowans.

Not bulky but quite adequate the kit and rations can be easily handled. Filt. Lt. 'Mickey' McGuire demonstrates.

This equipment, a fishing line, hooks, a troll, snare wire and a clasp knife, would enable an ingenious airman to live indefinitely if his plane crashes in some remote section of the country.

To give airmen every chance for survival wherever and whenever they may be forced down—on land, at sea or in mid-winter—the R.C.A.F. has adopted five new types of emergency equipment, air force headquarters said in a press release tonight.

The equipment includes an emergency ration kit which all fliers must wear while in the air, a supplementary ration kit to be carried in aircraft, an emergency kit for winter flying, a dinghy kit of supplies for forced landings at sea and a tiny emergency radio to send SOS messages.

The personal emergency kit, being distributed now to all flying personnel, is worn like a bandolier around the waist. Packed, it is only an inch thick, and contains gum, eight chocolate bars and two packages of specially-prepared biscuits.

The rations provide sufficient food for three days under normal working conditions.

The kit includes matches, fishing lines, a heliograph mirror to signal aircraft from the ground, a medical kit, smoke generators, whistle, knife, compass and chemical "heat tablets," which generate flame for starting fires.

SUPPLEMENTARY KIT

The supplementary kit carried in each plane contains twice the quantity of medical aids in the individual kit, plus bandages and enough chocolate and biscuits to keep one man alive for 28 days or four men for a week. It includes tinned water, hand axe, compass, smoke generator, heliograph mirror, "nest" of cooking pots, folding cooking stove using solidified alcohol, four spoons, cigarette papers, tobacco, fly repellent and heavy cord which can be used as rope or fishing line.

A winter kit is in production for cold weather flying. Individually parcelled for each airman landing in a winter wilderness will be heavy woolen socks, ski-type mitts, "mukluk" moccasins with felt insoles, anti-glare eye shields, snowshoes and a sleeping bag.

In the bottom of the valise containing the inflatable rubber dinghy will be a kit for airmen forced down on water. It will contain a waterproof cover to keep off waves and rain, two marine distress signals—to be replaced later by a small very pistol and 30 signal cartridges—and signalling matches which burn with a bright greenish glare.

YELLOW SKULL CAPS

The kit also will include yellow skull caps to make the crew conspicuous; rubber leak stoppers in case enemy airmen machine-gun the dinghy; glove-type paddles, a drinking cup, graduated to ration water, a telescopic mast with a signal flag (the mast can also be used as a radio aerial, more emergency rations, canned water, fluorescent sea markers and a small first-aid kit.

A small emergency radio, to be transferred to the dinghy in case of "ditching" will be carried in aircraft. It will operate on the international distress frequency of 500 kilocycles and transmit either an automatic SOS or Morse code messages.

Gordie Woodhouse Scores Fine Win In London Ring

LONDON (CP)—A fighting Canadian soldier, in a London ring for the first time, stole the show at the Queensberry Club and incidentally pocketed a $65 side bet.

Avenge a previous defeat up north, Cpl. Gordie Woodhouse of Vancouver fought like a Trojan in the closing rounds to gain the nod over Harry Davis, London welterweight. Most exciting fight of a top-notch card, it kept a packed house in a welter of excitement throughout the eight rounds.

The side bet was laid after Gordie and Harry were re-matched and for a while it looked as if Harry had it in his jeans. In the early round he repeatedly beat Gordie to the punch but the former well-known amateur stiffened in the last half and tired the Londoner with rights to the jaw.

Jockey Alf Robertson Through Brilliant Career

NEW YORK (AP)—Alf Robertson, the most fashionable stable in the business—the Whitneys, Mrs. Ethel W. Mars and Mrs. Sloane.

GREAT RECORD

In his run, he won 1,865 races for more than $3,000,000 in total purses. He's the only rider ever to win six races in one day twice in his life. Robbie hit his jackpot in Havana, back in 1928, when he'd been riding just a year, and at Jamaica in 1941.

Alf saw his first race at Toronto Woodbine before he was 12, fell in love with the sport, and made up his mind to be a jockey. At 17, he rode his first winner at Mount Royal race track in Montreal. From there on it was the "Aberdeen Express" with the track clear—and always leveling.

When Robbie got to the point where he didn't sit his mount as though he was tied on, he knew better than anyone else that it was time to cash his chips and check out. And that's what he's done. After 16 years during which he became one of the wealthiest and most respected riders in the business, Robbie is retiring as a jockey—still on top.

Lawn Bowling

Second of the Saturday night prize games at Victoria Lawn Bowling Club greens in Beacon Hill Park was attended by eight full rinks of 64 players, men and women drawn from all city clubs. First prize was awarded R. H. Harrison's rink with a margin of 17 over T. L. Smellie's team. Mrs. McKeachie and A. Jeffrey's rinks were awarded second prize for the closest contest with a score of 13 each.

Third place was won by C. Goodwin's team with 14; over J. Richardson. H. Leggett and R. Husband's rinks had each a margin of nine over their opponents. G. A. Marconini was 12 up over H. N. Gahan's rink. Ladies' club members served refreshments, and were thanked by P. E. Corcoran on behalf of all the players. A similar game is planned for Saturday, July 10.

WE WONDER if the fans who have been attending local ball games in large numbers these days, have noted how the league is blessed with four top-notch shortstops. Saturday we were chatting to a visitor from Winnipeg who has been a keen baseball player and devotee for many years, and he expressed amazement that a five-team loop could come up with four such high-calibre players in the short-stop position.

Players we refer to are "Nertz" Parent, R.C.A.F.; Ace Lowe, Victoria Machinery Depot; Nick Metz, Army, and Whitey Menard, Navy. Parent is leading the league in hitting with a brilliant .479 average and also sets the pace in base stealing with 11. Lowe is pounding the ball at .440 clip while Metz's batting average is .419 with Menard hitting at .306. Put those four boys on one club and just imagine the power you would have at the plate. In addition to their hitting all four cover a lot of territory and pack deadly throwing arms.

Back from a week-end fishing trip off Saturna Island, Ross (Bud) Hocking comes up with an interesting fish story. It seems that during conversation with a commercial fisherman Hocking heard one of the most amazing yarns we have come across in years. While fishing in these waters the fisherman noted two large eagles had nested close to shore. One of them was noted missing and on investigation the bird's body was found on shore wound up in a fishing leader with a plug on one end and along with the remains of a big salmon.

On discovering the plug was of United States make the fisherman came to the following conclusion. The eagle must have swooped down to pick up the salmon in one of the streams on the nearby United States shore. On getting into the air the big bird became entangled in the wire leader and it cost him his life. From the evidence at hand the eagle apparently made a desperate effort to get free but the wire and hooks, originally intended to catch a much different game, proved deadly. Hocking reported the fishing for bluebacks good and that young coho were making their first appearance.

Archie McKinnon, physical instructor at the Y.M.C.A., still keeps in touch with Victoria athletes overseas. Hardly a week passes that Archie doesn't get letters from some of "the old gang." Recent mail brought news from F. O. Norm Loudoun, R.C.A.F., who said he spent a two-weeks leave in Scotland where the weather was "lovely—almost like Victoria." However, he is anxious to get on the job.

Lieut. Fred Winslow, with the Canadian Army overseas was in hospital recovering from a sore right knee at the time of writing. He had met his brother Bud whom he had not seen for any length of time in 12 years, he told McKinnon.

"They really lay it on in order to get you in shape," he wrote of a month spent at battle school, where he said one workout provided a good obstacle course. He inquired after Victoria basketball and spoke of Norm Baker.

P.O. Joe Addison began doing outdoor track training with a P.T. sergeant who represented England in the 1938 British Empire Games but did not think he would have much time for his hobby.

"I'm still keen as mustard on this racket," he spoke of his air force job.

Good weather and beautiful country was P.O. Vic Dale's comment on his arrival overseas. The water he said had been fairly rough for a couple of days on the way over but he wasn't sick.

WASHINGTON (AP)—Jackie Wilson, former National Boxing Association featherweight champion, stopped Lew Hanbury, Washington, in the eighth round of a scheduled 10-round bout Monday night. Wilson weighed 127½ pounds, Hanbury 131½.

Will Race No More

Whirlaway, known to thousands of horse racing fans as "Mr. Long-tail" will join his illustrious daddy, Blenheim II, in stud. Warren Wright, owner of the long-tailed bay who won $561,161.50 in four years of racing, announced Monday "Whirlaway" had failed to recover from a leg injury suffered last February. In the above picture Whirlaway is seen with Ben Jones who trained him during his great track campaign.

Another Hockey Headache

Youngsters Gone

By CHARLIE EDWARDS

TORONTO (CP)—A month ago National Hockey League managers were talking confidently of carrying on in 1943-1944 with "teen-aged" players. Right now they are probably staying awake nights reading the new selective service authority for transfer of boys aged 16 to 19, into essential war work. Hope of reviving the Western Inter-provincial Football Union this autumn still flickers, though faintly, in Winnipeg, Regina and Edmonton. Regina is reluctant to pass over the grid season without seeing action by some of the backfield talent available there. Some of the useful ball-carriers stationed there are Ken Charlton, George Cullen, Andy Branigan, Joe Turner and Claud Warwick. Charlton and Branigan were with Winnipeg R.C.A.F. Bombers in last year's national final. Turner was a big-name star with Calgary Bronks for years.

LIGHT FANTASTIC

Len Wadsworth, Canadian middleweight boxing champion, and Cliff Beckett went through five rounds of an exhibition, no-decision fight at Sudbury, Ont., last week. Two thousand fans saw the bout that was less exciting than an afternoon quilting bee. The Sudbury Star termed Wadsworth-Beckett "the sensational new dancing team." The Star commented: "The late Flo Ziegfeld should have been on hand, and he would have found a pair of real hoofers."

Lacrosse Teams Play Five Games

Box lacrosse teams will be busy with five games scheduled in seven days, starting tomorrow night, when the Cougars battle the Jokers, last year's B.C. juvenile champions, at Stevenson Memorial Park, starting at 7. Schedule was announced today by secretary Doug Fletcher.

In a recent practice game the Jokers nosed out the senior Cougars 12 to 11.

Friday night a pair of games are scheduled. Starting at 6, Oakland and James Bay midge clubs will battle, followed by a tilt between Douglas Tire and Yarrow. Monday night the Owl Drug will tackle the Jokers, starting at 7, while a week tomorrow night the R.C.A.F. Flyers and Cougars will meet for the second time in the senior league. Fletcher stated today that last week's opening resulted in the raising of $40 for the Solarium.

Navy Hit Ball Often

Submerge Eagles 18-5

Navy players fattened their batting averages at the ball park Monday night, and in the course of their slugging spree sank the Eagles under a crushing 18 to 5 count. It was one of the most lop-sided scores of the season as the Navy lads collected 17 base knocks off three Eagles pitchers.

After taking a three-run lead in the first inning, the Navy always looked the best, and outside of the hitting there was little for the fans to get excited about. Sailors put on a six-run rally in the sixth and came up with a flock more base hits to score four more in the ninth.

Jimmy Dumeah, No. 1 Navy hurler, started and worked for six innings, during which time he never exerted himself. Looked as if the big fellow was out there loosening up his flipper in preparation for action in the holiday intercity games, July 1. Dumeah gave up six hits and three runs. He was replaced by Lefty Pawluk, whose three-inning record was four hits and two runs.

USE THREE HURLERS

Eagles started with Ray Maitland, but he left the game in the sixth inning with a sore shoulder, after giving up four hits and four runs. His position was taken by Elmer Curtis, 18-year-old right-hander, but the youngster couldn't stand the pressure, and lasted one inning after being nicked for three hits and six runs. Ted Maitland took over and finished the game. He was charged with 10 hits and eight runs in three innings.

Coy, new third baseman for the Navy, and Gil Bruce, centre fielder, were the big sticklers, the former with three for five, and Bruce with four for six. Dunc McGeachey led the Eagles with three for five.

Short score follows: R. H. E. Navy 18 17 2 Eagles 5 10 4 Batteries—Dumeah, Pawluk and Effner; R. Maitland, Curtis, T. Maitland and Bacon.

Majors Rest Up For Heavy Grind

Clubs Work Wednesday For Charity

It's going to be a great relief for the major league ball clubs to start another round of inter-sectional play tomorrow.

This is because tomorrow is the first of two "war relief" days designated by Commissioner Kenesaw Mountain Landis with all clubs turning over their entire receipts to the National War Fund.

Baseball has mobilized for two big relief days, June 30 and July 28, instead of scattering their dates, and the whole show is being glided with gaudy side-features. All the shows will be either doubleheaders, twilight or night games.

The program tomorrow: National League—St. Louis at New York (doubleheader), Cincinnati at Brooklyn (doubleheader), Chicago at Boston (doubleheader), Pittsburgh at Philadelphia (night).

American League—New York at Cleveland (night), Philadelphia at St. Louis (night), Boston at Detroit (twilight), Washington at Chicago (doubleheader), combined Washington-Chicago squad plays Great Lakes Training Station in first game.

HEAVY SCHEDULE

These games will set off a busy two-weeks program for both leagues with a heavy holiday schedule awaiting all clubs this week-end and the annual all-star game coming up at Philadelphia two weeks from tonight.

The only activity in the majors Monday was a night game at Pittsburgh with Pirates pummeling Cincinnati Reds 7 to 1.

Truett (Rip) Sewell, on the way to his most successful season, pitched steady, seven-hit ball and personally whacked Bucky Walters off the mound with a two-run triple in the first inning. In addition Bob Elliott contributed a two-run homer toward Sewell's 10th triumph against two defeats.

All clubs are idle today.

NATIONAL LEAGUE

Cincinnati	R. H. E.
Pittsburgh	7 1 0
Batteries: Walters, Shout (2) and Mueller, Lakeman; Sewell and Lopez.

First round draw follows: Rev. Canon S. Ryall and Dr. W. G. Wilson vs. A. Woodcroft and T. S. Whittemore.

H. G. MacKenzie and D. Johnston vs. Al. Campbell and F. G. Hope.

R. Ard and R. Williams vs. C. J. Robertson and J. Tully.

J. W. Kempston and S. V. Osborne vs. P. P. Ellis and N. Addams.

18-Year-Old Miss Latest Golf Star

CHICAGO (AP)—The newest sensation in women's golf is 18-year-old Catherine Fox, who, as just a tot, built sand castles in the bunkers of the Kidderminster Golf Club in England.

Born in a house on that course, where her father was a pro, Catherine was brought up with a putter in her hand instead of a doll. She was only two years old when she came to this country with her parents, and was only 10 when she played in her first golf tournament.

Catherine's father, Jack Fox, who was pro at Leven, Scotland, before going to England, chewed up several cigars during anxious moments Monday when she fired a 78 over the Glen Oaks links to tie with 21-year-old Ann Casey of Mason City, Iowa, for runner-up medalist honors in the women's western open.

Patty Berg of Minneapolis, out of competitive golf 18 months after shattering her left kneecap in an automobile accident, made a grand comeback with an even par 76 to win the medal.

200 Fans Coming From Vancouver For Local Fight

Promoter Jack Price returned from Vancouver today with word that 200 mainland fans will be over here to support Young Tommy Burns when he steps into the ring for his 10-round bout with Harvey Dubbs at the Athletic Park the night of July 6.

"Vancouver fight followers are really worked up over the forthcoming fight and I was kept busy taking seat reservations," Price said.

The outdoor card, which will offer 35 rounds of boxing, will be a real night of champions. Included on the card will be Jackie Turner, Vancouver, Canadian flyweight titleholder and Seattle Golden Gloves winner; Norman Dawson, Vancouver, amateur middleweight champion of Canada; Hank Egli, Vancouver, Vancouver Golden Gloves middleweight titleholder; Bobby Parker, Victoria, Seattle Golden Gloves champion; Young Tommy Burns, undisputed welterweight champion of the Canadian army and Harvey Dubbs, undisputed welterweight champion of the Canadian navy.

Net proceeds from the show will be turned over to local charity.

Price stated today that if the first card proves a success he will promote a fight show a month in Victoria.

Senior Softballers In Action Tonight

Tonight's softball double-header at the Athletic Park for senior men's clubs will bring together the R.C.A.F. and Victoria Machinery Depot in the first game, starting at 6.15, and the Navy and Army in the second fixture.

Present standing of the clubs finds the Navy out in front, with the Flyers and V.M.D. deadlocked for second position.

In Monday night's men's C section games O.T.C., Esquimalt and K.V.'s marked up triumphs.

Scores follow:

Spencers	022 200 510—12
Esquimalt	020 105 032—13
Batteries—Jones and Knowles; Wickens and Young.

Spruce Products	010 110 000—3

No Split Schedule

LOS ANGELES (AP)—A proposal to split the 1943 Pacific Coast League baseball season into first-half and second-half races has been defeated "substantially" by the various owners, President Wilbur C. Tuttle announced Monday.

Whether the post-season Shaughnessy playoffs will be held this year will be decided Aug. 15 by a special committee, Tuttle said.

In the event the playoffs are abandoned, the prize money will be divided among the top four teams at the end of the season.

'Teen-age Girls On Streets

Disorderly Houses Again Debated By City Council

"Venereal disease in this city is not spread by houses of prostitution, but by 'teen age girls on the streets at midnight," declared Ald. Fred A. Willis in City Council Monday.

He called on the council to face the facts. Those responsible for the condition are delinquent parents, he said. The women's missionary societies of the city should not spend their time writing letters to the council, but should get their ministers to thunder the fact from pulpits. He would like to see, he said, legislation which would bring into court the parents of street-wandering girls to answer for the offenses of their offspring.

Under pressure of war living, the institution of the home was falling down, he said.

The ministers of the churches, said Ald. Ed. Williams, could thunder all they liked, but the people who need the message do not go to church.

Ald. Willis admitted the truth of that statement but added:

"If I read history aright, the Founder of the Christian Church didn't wait for the people to come to church. He took the church to them."

The council had a responsibility in the matter, said Ald. B. J. Gadsden.

SCANDALOUS DISGRACE

"It's our duty to set the course," he said, adding, "It's a scandalous disgrace, seeing 'teen age children treading the streets late at night with soldiers and sailors on their arms."

The debate arose from a letter from the Women's Missionary Society, Centennial United Church, declaring Victoria, formerly compared to paradise had become a breeding ground for V.D. The letter cited statements attributed to Pacific Command headquarters over the alleged high rate of infection in Victoria of members of the forces and criticized the City Council for its reaction to the report.

The letter was tabled for an opinion from the city solicitor on the city's powers respecting control of the disease.

After it had been read, Ald. T. W. Hawkins asked if anything was being done about picking up girls on the street.

"Has this much-publicized report of the Pacific Command come in yet?" asked Ald. W. H. Davies.

Mayor Andrew McGavin replied it had been received Monday but he had not had an opportunity to study it.

Ald. P. E. George moved the Women's Missionary Society letter be answered and the writers informed the council "was taking steps to eradicate this evil." The letter itself, he said, should be passed on to the police commission.

"We've been trying to enforce the law," said Mayor McGavin.

"We are not doing a thing to eradicate this evil," said Ald. Ed. Williams. "We are just putting it where it belongs—with the police, that's all."

Ald. Davies contended the only step that had been taken was that of trying to keep juvenile delinquents off the street through a curfew, and that move had been voted down.

"If we haven't any power, let's tell the public," said Ald. Archie Willis. He added he thought the city did have powers in view of the fact the question was a health matter. He asked for a ruling from the city solicitor, and this course was adopted by the council.

The alderman added the council had been told the curfew proposal had been declared unenforceable.

Earlier letters on disorderly houses were returned to the police commission with an assurance the city would relay to that body the report expected from Premier John Hart on venereal disease figures for the city.

Those letters, said Ald. George, had been tabled pending information from the police on two specific houses alleged to have been operating in the city.

Ald. Gadsden noted the general concern over the adverse publicity given Victoria on the question.

ADVERSE PUBLICITY

The police commission, too, deplored that publicity, Mayor McGavin said.

Ald. Gadsden noted the police chief had asked some time ago for six extra officers and had been given three. There was, he indicated, justification for police difficulties when requests were treated in that manner.

Ald. Archie Willis suggested the report from the Premier be relayed to the police, and noted disorderly houses had been operating recently in the city, as disclosed by police court prosecutions.

He moved the City Council express its desire to police authorities that houses be prevented

To Continue Efforts For Intercity Service

A letter from the Board of Transport Commissioners declining Victoria requests for use of T.C.A. airliners coming into this city by air passengers from and to Vancouver was referred to the city's industrial committee Monday. The action was taken on a motion by Ald. Archie Willis, who asked the committee to conduct a survey during the next two months and report its findings at the end of that time.

The transport board, in its letter, told the city no new evidence had been submitted warranting a change in its decision barring Victoria-Vancouver passenger traffic from the airliners.

Ald. Willis expressed opinion the evidence supporting the case could be secured during the summer. Mayor McGavin noted the cost of transportation on the C.P.A. listing it at more than double that which could be provided by T.C.A.

The application of the City Hall Officials Association for permission to work an extra hour five mornings a week in order to have Saturday morning off, will be discussed by the council in committee of the whole before any reply is made. Mayor McGavin said he would call a special meeting on the question and seek opinions from department heads at the session.

Civic employees who recently secured approval for establishment of a committee to draft a salary schedule covering the City Hall staff, will be asked to reconsider the composition of the proposed board of three and accept Ismay, Bolton and Dunn, city auditors, in its place. Originally the plan called for an appointee from the employees, one from the council and a third chosen by the two. Monday Mayor McGavin suggested the city auditors should handle the question but tentatively appointed Ald. T. W. Hawkins as the council representative. Ald. Hawkins voiced opinion the auditors would be satisfactory, but thought no outsider should be allowed to sit.

Equipment used by the Red Cross for jam-making in Sunshine Inn was transferred to new quarters at 519 Yates Street today, with provision made to have it stored when the season was over in order to permit other tenants in the new quarters.

Seeking Pickers For Loganberries

Numerous pickers will be wanted, beginning next week, for the loganberry season, it was announced by C. M. Smith, director of the Dominion-Provincial Emergency Farm Labor Service, today.

Mr. Smith is touring Saanich district to determine when most urgent calls for help will be made.

The strawberry crop has been light and no difficulty has been experienced in obtaining sufficient help to pick it, but it is expected many more pickers will be needed to take care of the loganberry crop, which is expected to be heavy this year. To help ease the situation, 20 girls from private schools on the Island have been established in a hostel in Mount Newton School.

A special bus out of Victoria each morning carries 35 or 40 pickers to the berry fields of Saanich, while another busload of 12 or 14 go out from the Sidney Women's Land Army. The Victoria bus this morning also carried two men who had volunteered for haying, as this is one phase of the agricultural problem in which serious shortages of labor are expected to occur, unless townspeople volunteer in increasing numbers to help where possible.

10% Food Increase Here Too Low, Say Wholesalers

Ten per cent increase for Victoria in goods now on a quota basis as announced by Wartime Prices and Trade Board Monday was not large enough in view of the increased wartime population of the city, wholesalers said today.

"It won't be much help," one said, pointing out that while the increase in goods has been set at 10 per cent, the population in the city and surrounding districts has increased anywhere from 50 to 100 per cent.

General opinion of several wholesalers questioned was that it might relieve the situation to some extent in certain goods now in short supply, such as honey, and possibly syrup, "always provided distribution can be carried out properly," one wholesaler commented who blamed hoarding and the practice of housewives running from one store to another, for adding confusion to the problem of supply.

WILL BE STILL SHORT

In so far as canned goods, such as fruit and vegetables were concerned, all were in agreement that the increase would possibly not be as effective as it might look at first.

"The problem here," said one after another, "is simply a case of short supply."

"It was bad enough last year," they said, "but this year the crops have been a failure in many parts, particularly in the east where large canneries are located. Peaches, apricots and pears have been affected, and the pack this year will probably not be any more than 30 to 50 per cent of what it was last year."

"On the island," they pointed out, "the strawberry crop has been a failure. Practically the entire crop has sold on the fresh berry market, leaving only a small supply for jam."

This, however, will be eked out to some extent by the fact that canners are planning to make great use of the loganberry crop, reported abundant, for jam.

DEHYDRATED FRUIT

"We are hoping that we will be able to take the place of canned fruit with dehydrated fruit to some extent," wholesalers said, pointing out that if this happened they still didn't know what their quotas would be, as quotas were based upon previous years' orders and they had not resorted to this type much in the past. Certain types of canned vegetables would also be in short supply, they said.

"In previous years there was a lot of spinach canned, but this year packers said that they could not can it under ceiling prices and still make a profit, so there will not be any canned spinach next year."

"Peas, however, will probably be in plentiful supply," they said, "as we understand the pea crop is quite good. Corn, too, should be good, though it is a little early in the season yet to say."

The problem with the pea crop, they said, is getting labor to pick and pack it.

"Of course it is a little early yet to say just how the increased quota will work out," said the dealers, pointing out that they had not heard much about it yet beyond a brief newspaper announcement.

Of the situation generally, wholesalers said that if the increase did take effect, they did not know just when it would be, as they pointed out that supplies had to be built up right from the primary producers. "The situation can change overnight. It's all in the hands of Mother Nature," they said.

"We're hoping for the best, and we're sure we'll manage somehow," several dealers said.

BAKERS HOPEFUL

While the increase is not expected to affect supplies of rationed commodities such as tea, coffee, sugar, butter and meat to the individual, bakers expressed themselves as hoping that it would mean an increase in all supplies needed in their businesses, not only rationed commodities, but raisins, currants, canned fruit and dried apples.

"It is something we have been agitating for a long time," said the president of the Bakers' Association who pointed out that even an increase of 10 per cent would not go far towards relieving the present pressure on bakeshops.

The spokesman for the bakers said, "We are supposed to be getting 70 per cent of our 1941 supply, but actually we haven't been getting that much."

"At the present time our month's supply is enough to last only two weeks," they said, pointing out that many shops are closing part time.

City Sells Lots For Shipbuilding Expansion Here

Sale of five city lots on Kingston and Montreal Streets, adjacent to the Armstrong Bros. shipyard, which also may be absorbed in the shipbuilding site on the Inner Harbor, was put through Monday afternoon by the City Council.

The city property in the James Bay area was purchased by Jas. Falconer of Vancouver, who has been dickering for some time with Armstrong Bros. for the purchase of the existing boat building plant.

Robert Armstrong admitted this morning that negotiations had been under way with the Falconer interests for the purchase of his yard, but explained that certain details had yet to be completed, including the settlement of the question of foreshore rights.

Mr. Falconer is associated with North Van Ship Repairs Ltd., which company holds contracts with Wartime Merchant Shipping Ltd. for the construction of steel freighters at North Vancouver.

Mr. Falconer's plans in Victoria have yet to be announced, but are understood to embrace the establishment of a largely expanded shipyard for the construction of wooden vessels and possibly other types.

The firm of Armstrong Bros. has been established in Victoria for 35 years.

Colorful Characters Here With Famous Army Show

By A. M. THOMAS

Victorians who saw the smart parade staged by the cast of the Army Show through downtown Victoria today missed the most colorful character in the troupe.

No sparkling soubrette, rollicking comedian or romantic tenor, this character is a burly staff-sergeant among whose many claims to fame is the fact that he once "slugged it out" with Al Capone, worked with Sir Henry Irving and Sir Harry Lauder, and has juggled theatre props back of every full-sized stage in Canada and many of them in the U.S.

S. Sgt. Ernie Gill, a veteran of the First Great War, is chief mechanic for the Army Show which arrived here late Monday for two performances at the Royal Victoria Theatre tonight and Wednesday.

His is the job of looking after the 20 truckloads of equipment carried by the show, all of which he constructed. He also has to look after the regular staff of 10 stagehands who travel with the show, another 10 soldiers who are recruited at every camp, and the 14 local civilian stagehands employed under union rules.

SAYS SHOW "TOPS"

The Army Show, he says, is the best equipped and produced show he has traveled with, drawing for comparison on experiences of nearly 40 years in the business in which he started at the age of 12 with the late A. J. Small, Toronto millionaire whose disappearance two decades ago was one of the outstanding sensations of the day.

He recalls one visit to Victoria in the course of his many tours with famous shows playing here with "Twin Beds," starring Madge Kennedy, so long ago he doesn't remember when. Cliff Denham, manager of the Royal, remembered the visit when the two met today.

S.S. Gill's clash with "Scarface" came during a summer off-season, back in 1912-13, when he was working as a stevedore in Brooklyn, with Capone as a straw boss and unofficial union chief.

Capone, not so famous in those days, was just starting his racketeering, and mulcted the stevedores of about a fifth of their pay for "protection." Ernie Gill objected, managed to evade Scarface's gorillas and went to battle with the boss himself. He paid no dues.

"This is all right," he said,

HAPPY GANG STAR

By way of contrast, the Army Show also presents Capt. Robert Farnon, musical director, whose composition, "The Ottawa Symphony," is to be played by the Philadelphia Symphony Orchestra, and whose other symphonic works have been played by Sir Ernest MacMillan and other famous composers. Capt. Farnon, formerly with the radio show, "Happy Gang," was part composer-author of the Army Show, with Sgts. Frank Shuster and Johnny Wayne, Canadian counterparts of Olsen and Johnson.

Pte. Eileen Mahon of the C.W. A.C. is the only member of the cast who claims any connection with Victoria. She served here for some months before her talents as a pianist were discovered, when she was recruited for the show. Her husband, Lieut. A. Mahon, R.C.A., is overseas, where she hopes to join him.

Other British Columbians are Pte. Tad Kadzielawa, guitarist and cellist, who was studying in Berlin when the war broke out, Cpl. May Wends, former school teacher of Tupper Creek, B.C., and Pte. Thelma Tuff of Vancouver who turned down a post with the Los Angeles Civic Light Opera Co. in order to enlist.

In their parade today the soldier-players, preceded by the band of the R.C.A.S.C. marched from Broughton and Douglas Streets up Douglas to the City Hall where Mayor A. McGavin extended the official welcome of the city. They showed themselves as well trained soldiers carrying full equipment and looked as ready to fight as any other unit. In command of the parade was Capt. W. Wren who is in charge of training and administration of the show.

Among those attending to night's performance will be Premier John Hart and Mrs. Hart, Maj.-Gen. A. E. Potts and Mrs. Potts, Air Commodore E. L. McLeod, Capt. Massey Goodlen, R.C.N., and Mayor and Mrs. Andrew McGavin. On the reception committee will be Maj. Harold Brown and Norman Foster.

Mr. and Mrs. Corry who until recently resided at Durrance Road, Royal Oak, have been advised of the safe arrival of their son, Lieut. G. D. Corry, above, in England. "Geoff" was a student at University School till June, 1942. He enlisted as a private last July and was commissioned in March at Gordon Head. He captained the University School rugby team of 1941 and 1942, and also played on the Victoria rep team.

Half City Taxes Already Received

With three months still to go before current city taxes fall due, the city assessor-collector's department today reported over half the 1943 levy already received through the medium of prepaid taxes.

At June 28 collections amounted to $79,932, a figure $15,207 above the $70,725 collected at the similar date last year.

In the arrears department, collections to date amount to $56,411, a figure considered highly satisfactory in view of the fact far less was outstanding at the beginning of the year than at the beginning of 1942.

On the prepaids an interest allowance of 5 per cent per annum is allowed from the date of payment until taxes actually fall due.

Mode of Life Must Change for Peace

NEW WESTMINSTER

People of Canada have changed their mode of life to meet the challenge of war and they must continue to change it to meet the challenge of peace, Harold M. Diggon of Victoria told a joint meeting of Point Grey, Vancouver and New Westminster Kiwanis clubs at a luncheon in the Royal City today.

Describing what he termed the "silent revolution," Mr. Diggon outlined the many changes that the war has brought and stated that there was necessity for a thorough overhauling of our system and ways of living.

"People as a whole are now beginning to understand the economic principle of equity, a principle which should be the governing factor in all human relationships," he said. "The application of this principle is made simpler in wartime for the reason that privileged people are only too ready to relinquish their privileges when their possessions seem in danger."

"It is unthinkable that the young people now organized by the millions behind the war effort will be content, after being demobilized, to eke out a niggardly living doing odd jobs," he declared, warning that the young people would not acquiesce, but would rebel, likely causing the silent revolution "to develop into something which most of us wish to avoid."

The exigencies of war, he said, had compelled people to see the matter of money and values in their true perspective, stating that hitherto money has been accorded a place in our economy out of all proportion to its importance.

The wartime shortage of manpower, he said, had opened our eyes to the existence of one of our biggest economic evils—the waste of labor and undeveloped skill and the expenditure of energy on unproductive work.

"The idea of people being public benefactors merely because they employ people to minister to their own personal needs and desires is one of the greatest economic fallacies."

Mr. Diggon urged co-operation, declaring that it should be the business of life.

"We have arrived at the stage when it is no longer necessary to devote most of our time, our energy and resources to making instruments of destruction, we can make a start on improving the quality of our national life, an improvement covering every phase of activity—social, industrial, economic, political and educational," Mr. Diggon told the members of the three clubs.

He warned, however, against wishful thinking in the matter of reconstruction of the postwar world, stating that the responsibility of rebuilding lay on the shoulders of everyone, young and old.

Joint Historical Ceremony Planned

British Columbia Historical Association, which has this year suitably celebrated Victoria's 100th birthday, is now moving to suitably mark, in 1946, the centenary of the boundary line settlement between British Columbia and the United States.

The B.C. association, in a letter to Lewis A. McArthur of Portland, president of the Oregon Historical Society, and Rev. John M. Canse of Portland, president of Washington State Historical Society, suggests that the celebration be held on an international scale.

In his letter, B. A. McKelvie, president of the B.C. association, said "the celebration, naturally, is dependent on the war being concluded by that time." If so, then such a celebration would gain in importance. It would once more exemplify to a war-weary world that two great nations can exist side by side in peace, where there is a desire to seek mutual understanding of their problems and live as good neighbors."

Mr. McKelvie has also suggested to the B.C. government, through Provincial Secretary George Pearson, that the pioneer cemeteries of the province be cared for adequately.

Mr. Pearson was told by letter "many of these burial grounds are in a disgraceful condition—it is not a pleasant sight to see such apparent indifference on the part of British Columbia today for the memory of those who laid the foundations of our country—immediate relatives and friends who cared for those who are buried there have passed on."

R.C.A.F. to Open Recruiting Office

After July 5 Victoria men and women wishing to join the R.C.A.F. will not have to wait for the periodical visits of a recruiting unit. Western Air Command announced Monday a recruiting office will be opened in Belmont Building, July 5, remaining open until further notice.

Arrangements for supervised playgrounds in Oak Bay Municipality are nearing completion. Mrs. E. J. Costain has been appointed supervisor of the Oak Bay supervised playground, which will be held in Willows Beach Park for three weeks, beginning next Monday, and in Windsor Park from July 26 to Aug. 14.

Classes will start each morning at 10. Mrs. Costain is well qualified for the position of supervisor, having had seven years' training in physical education and folk dancing at the Summer School of Education, and has also had charge of Pro-Rec classes in Vancouver. Miss Georgina Moore has been engaged as her assistant.

Miss Dorothy Davies, a member of the staff of the Community Drama Office, will direct the children in community drama twice a week.

Letters to Editor

APPRECIATES EFFORT

The Oak Bay Playgrounds Committee is one of the good signs of citizenship which can freely show itself in our democracy. The energy, thought and patience required of those who are making this possible is something to stimulate the mind and touch the heart of every parent in the municipality, and every citizen outside of it. For it is for children this thing is being done.

The men and women responsible for this endeavor should have our gratefulness proven in the form that is more acceptable than any other to unselfish people—public spirit. The devotion to the good of all is shown by the Playgrounds Committee, whose unsought praise may best be expressed through the positive actions and words of the people. Negative criticism is out of place in the face of such constructive civism.

What real altruism it is when a neighbor undertakes to arrange supervised play for your Johnny of Mary, who might otherwise be hanging up and causing you anxiety when out of your sight, or troubling your conscience when in your sight, playing games on the street in front of your house.

The playgrounds committee will, we hope, become financially a municipal organization. This will, in part, enable with fairness all the hundreds and hundreds of homes affected by such a plan to become affiliated with it.

Mr. Wells and Gen. de Gaulle

From Fighting French News
Mr. H. G. Wells has decided to make up everyone else's mind about Gen. de Gaulle. In an article in "World Review" he has not got a single good word to say for him. But he has not even a fair word to say for him, and fairness is a British characteristic. Mr. Wells would be the last to deny.

However, Mr. Wells has also just told the world that the daily newspaper, because of radio, is "dead as mutton." Somehow it had no effect on the sale of newspapers next day. Perhaps in both cases his judgment was at fault.

Mr. Wells has reviewed two books, one a collection of the speeches of Gen. de Gaulle, and the other a booklet about Gen. de Gaulle as chief of the Fighting French. The article by Mr. Wells is headed "The Truth About De Gaulle," so probably it is no good saying anything more. But the truth about the General is strongly like that about the newspaper.

It has been said that Mr. Wells has written more history than he has read, and one wonders whether the remark is more truthful than unkind.

Although Mr. Wells says: "I make no suggestion that De Gaulle is not sincere," he follows this by the statement, "He is an artlessly sincere megalomaniac. He believes in himself to such an extent that he feels justified in any measure that will put him in absolute control of France."

No reply to the accusation is needed. One has only to read the speeches of the General, read aright the facts of the last three and a half years and remember that De Gaulle, wherever he has brought the French Empire back into the war has maintained the laws of the Republic, and has always declared himself only a trustee bound in honor to give full account of his trusteeship to the French assembly as soon as it is called together by free vote on the soil of France.

Let us hope the misguided people in every town in North Africa liberated by the Allies never get to read Mr. Wells' words of wisdom or they will cease to raise the cry of "Long Live De Gaulle," and the resist-

Ontario Speaker Opposes Barriers

WINDSOR, Ont. (CP)—Elimination of customs and immigration barriers between Canada and the United States, to permit the free flow of goods and people across the boundary, was urged Monday by Hon. Jas. H. Clark, K.C., speaker of the Ontario Legislature.

He was addressing a Liberal meeting which unanimously nominated him as the Liberal candidate in Windsor-Sandwich in the next provincial election.

Maj. Clark said critics had distorted and twisted the sentiments expressed by him in a recent radio speech in Detroit regarding sentiment for political union between the Dominion and the United States. In his Detroit speech, he said he believed that between 40 and 45 per cent of the people in Canada would vote for political union with the United States.

Maj. Clark said nobody loved Canada more than he did, and for this reason he wanted closer relations between the Dominion and the United States. Closer relations could not help but bring greater prosperity to Canada. He had also mentioned Russia and stated he wanted to see closer relations with Russia, he said.

"They have taken my words and they have twisted them, trying to show that I'm in favor of selling out Canada, or of annexation of Canada by the United States," said Maj. Clark.

"The record of what I said is available, and if you read it you will find nothing in it that could be criticized," he continued. "I was asked what effect I thought the war would have on Canadian sentiment, whether Canadians would tend to lean closer to the United States, and I said 'yes, I thought 45 per cent of the people of Canada would vote for political union with the United States.'"

"What we want is that the customs barrier between those two countries should be ripped out, and the immigration barriers. We want commerce to flow north and south between Canada and the United States, and we want people to flow freely north and south. We want the finest friendship in the world between these two countries—and with Russia."

PLAZA THEATRE
"The Amazing Mrs. Holliday," with its singing star, Deanna Durbin, has been held over at the Plaza Theatre.

Here is one of those rare movie experiences in which the perfect blending of potent story material, superb performances and exquisite music has been accomplished with striking effect. Deanna, now gloriously grown-up, has added another spectacular success to her parade of Universal hits which began with "Three Smart Girls."

This Mrs. Holliday, portrayed by Deanna, is a very resourceful young lady who evacuates a

IN COMA TWO MONTHS, RESPONDS TO MUSIC
Hope grew that the music of the violin she loves would lift her out of the coma into which she lapsed over two months ago after 8-year-old Dorleen Peabody appeared to respond to the playing of her favorite pieces—"Twinkle, Twinkle, Little Star" and "God Bless America." She is pictured above, in her San Diego, Calif., home, with her mother, Mrs. Wilfred Peabody and her nurse, Mrs. Irene MacDonald, at her bedside.

Vancouver, Victoria Convert 50 Homes

Victoria and Vancouver will share in a move for the conversion of 50 homes into self-contained units, plans for which are underway now in an effort to provide homes for men brought here for war work. F. W. Nicolls, M.R.A.I.C., director of housing for Minister of Finance, declared on his arrival in Victoria, Monday.

Mr. Nicolls will inspect National Housing Administration houses in the city and surrounding municipalities before returning east in a week's time.

Greater number of the 50 homes would be converted in Vancouver, he stated. According to National Housing Registry figures here, 32 homes have been offered for conversion in Victoria and district, but owing to zoning restrictions and the cost of conversion it is unlikely that more than 20 could be considered. Mrs. W. E. Rayfuse, manager of the registry, reported.

"We are hoping to get things in shape and go ahead with our plans within a week," Mr. Nicolls said, as he spoke of the Home Conversion Plan which he is organizing now and which will call for a survey of large dwellings suitable for conversion into smaller self-contained units.

The plan calls for the obtaining applications from owners wishing to lease their homes to the Dominion government for a period of five or more years, with all alterations done under the government.

TO SPEND $250,000
Jocelyn Davidson, regional director of the National Housing Administration, said today in group of helpless little children from the Orient in time to escape the Japanese terror. How she finds refuge and is forced to masquerade as a wealthy widow provides sensational dramatic action leading up to the film's climax.

Vancouver that the Dominion government has allotted $250,000 to be spent in the conversion plan in the two cities and that a number of the houses are already available for conversion but must be inspected.

"We will maintain a high standard while keeping costs as low as feasible. We are limiting the investment to $1,500 per housing unit though we do not expect that this amount will be required," Mr. Nicolls said.

He felt that homes could be converted to provide four or five suites in each. The Vancouver office, he said, was already organized and a similar scheme is in operation in Ottawa, with one scheduled for Toronto in the near future. Zoning by-laws would be adhered to and nothing would be done to decrease property valuation in restricted areas, he maintained.

Gratification of his department for the work already done to relieve the housing shortage in Victoria, with a total of 580 dwellings completed or underway in Victoria, Oak Bay, Saanich and Esquimalt, was expressed by Mr. Nicolls. He said the work represented an investment of more than $2,000,000 here and was "a real step forward in the attempt to provide homes for workers brought here for war work."

14 Canadian Swim Records Recognized; Set National Meet

WINNIPEG (CP)—The Canadian Amateur Swimming Association championships will be held in Winnipeg Sept. 3 to 5, delegates declared at the annual meeting here Saturday night.

Fourteen swimming records were recognized by the association at the meeting. They included:

Senior men—The 150-yard medley time of 1:24.4 made by the Hamilton Athletic Club, and the 300-yard medley time of 3:11.3 by the Quebec team at St. Adele, Que., last July 18.

Junior men—The 50-yard breast stroke time of 30.5 posted by Thomas Parks of Hamilton and the 150-yard medley relay time of 1:28.8 by the Hamilton Athletic Club.

Senior women—The 200-yard free-style relay time of 1:57 posted by the Manitoba team at St. Adele last year and the 150-yard medley relay time of 1:40 of the Vancouver Amateur Swimming Club.

Junior women—The 40-yard backstroke time of .22 made by Doris Geldard of Toronto; the 50-yard backstroke time of 34.4 made by Shirley Muir of Vancouver; the 50-yard breaststroke time of 35.6 of Margaret Thompson, Hamilton; the 150-yard medley relay time of 1:43.4 by the High Park team of Toronto, and the 150-yard medley time of 2:08.6 made by Miss Thompson of Hamilton.

ATLAS THEATRE

Two outstanding film favorites, Ginger Rogers and Cary Grant, are co-starred in one of the season's most stirring pictures, Leo McCarey's "Once Upon a Honeymoon," at RKO Radio, now being shown at the Atlas Theatre. The exciting action is played against the background of the Nazi conquest of Europe in the early days of the war, with Miss Rogers in the role of a dancer who is married to a German baron and Grant as an audacious news broadcaster.

Daring Exploit Of War Screened

A story so timely that it might have been taken smack out of the headlines of your newspaper, and presented with a vividness that will cause it to remain long in your memory is 20th Century-Fox's "Tonight We Raid Calais," which opened today at the Dominion Theatre.

Annabella and John Sutton top the cast in the picture, which tells the story of the underground resistance of the French against the Nazi conquerors and the daring exploits of a lone British commando in an enemy-occupied French village. For suspense, drama and sheer excitement value, "Tonight We Raid Calais" rates high on any program.

RIO THEATRE

A cast of distinguished supporting players has been assembled for the Darryl F. Zanuck production, "This Above All," which co-stars Tyrone Power and Joan Fontaine at the Rio Theatre today.

Included in the supporting cast are Thomas Mitchell, Henry Stephenson, Nigel Bruce, Gladys Cooper, Philip Merivale, Sara Allgood and Alexander Knox. Anatole Litvak directed the film.

YORK THEATRE

Ingrid Bergman, lovely Swedish star who is now playing with Humphrey Bogart and Paul Henreid in the colorful and thrilling film, "Casablanca," now playing at the York Theatre, favors casual and sport clothes for her personal wardrobe.

Though she wears some of Orry-Kelly's most glamorous gowns in the film, were she to choose one of the costumes for her own she would prefer the very smart suit of camel's hair.

OAK BAY THEATRE

In her current picture, "The Great Lie," now at the Oak Bay Theatre, Miss Davis plays a modern girl. Brent, her romance in the tragic "Dark Victory," again becomes her husband. This time their love story has a happy ending. Miss Davis said the change from the tragic roles she has been playing to drama without tragedy "is probably very good for me."

CAPITOL THEATRE

Already noted for its ability to bring novels to the screen sincerely and faithfully, 20th Century-Fox is pointing with exceptional pride to its latest, Mary O'Hara's "My Friend Flicka," the technicolor picture currently holding forth at the Capitol Theatre. Roddy McDowall, Preston Foster and Rita Johnson head the cast of the outstanding film. As a novel, "My Friend Flicka" established new records both in book form and in the number of times it was reprinted. According to advance reports, the film is expected to set a few of its own. Harold Schuster directed the picture, which was produced by Ralph Dietrich.

CADET THEATRE

Director George Marshall is the miracle man of Hollywood. Marshall had the ticklish job of directing Paramount's sensational musical comedy, "Star Spangled Rhythm," which is now at the Cadet Theatre, with its more than 40 famous stars, all accustomed to undivided attention and glory. No bones were broken, no feelings hurt.

Dorothy Dix:

Dear Miss Dix: I am a girl of 17 and I am supposed to be married soon, but I cannot decide whether I am doing the right thing or not in rushing into marriage at my age with a boy of 19. I love him very much, but I think we are too young to start married life as things are now, especially as he is in the army and we could not be together.

Here are the things that bother me: I have one more year of schooling before I graduate from H.I. Shouldn't I finish my education before I marry? Does a girl of my age really know what she wants from life? If I married now, wouldn't I still feel that I should be having fun along with single girls of my age? Should we wait for marriage, or snatch two months of happiness, then take what Fate has in store for us? Please help me.

MURIEL.

Answer: If you will take my advice, will wait until after the war to marry. There are many reasons for this. One is that at 17 you are too young to marry, even if the conditions of life were different from what they are now. No girl at that age knows her own heart, or what she wants of life, nor what kind of a husband she is going to desire when she is a woman.

So if you marry now, you will simply be gambling on your whole life's happiness. But if, when he comes back from the war, himself no longer an unformed boy, but a disciplined man, you still love each other and want each other, your life's happiness will be assured.

You are right in thinking that you are not ready to settle down. You are at the play time of life and a wedding ring isn't going to keep you from wanting to dance and have fun and the pleasures that are innocent enough if you are single, but that will get you into trouble and break Kit's heart if you are married.

Costa Rica Indians Train Oxen for Hunting

The latest census estimate gives Costa Rica a population of 668,000. This is a big gain over the last official census.

The whites have gained in number, but there seem to be no more Indians now than there were in 1927. The same figure for Indians—3,500—appears in the latest estimate.

The officers of the census did not make an exact count in either case. The Indians in Costa Rica keep apart from the whites to a large extent, and follow their old ways.

The Talamancas Indians in Costa Rica live in huts made of bamboo or dried mud. They have the custom of hunting with oxen. When the oxen are young, they are trained to answer the pull of a cord on their small horns. After growing to full size, the animals still follow the will of their masters when a cord is tied to their horns.

The oxen are used as shields by Indian hunters. Going into a deep forest, the hunter hides behind the body of his ox. In this way he may get close enough to have a good shot with his bow and arrow at a peccary or deer.

The Costa Rica deer has a single spiked horn. The peccary is a member of the swine family; it is a wild relative of the hogs or swine which we have on our farms.

The peccaries of Costa Rica are dangerous animals. They eat flesh, and have been known to give battle to jaguars. Their flesh tastes something like pork, but not just the same. White men have complained because they could get no bacon from a peccary.

Among all the countries of Latin America, Costa Rica has the smallest proportion of Indians—only half of 1 per cent. There are five times as many negroes as Indians in the little republic. The negroes do most of the work on the banana plantations. They seem to be the race best fitted for hard labor in the damp, hot climate of the banana districts.

Spanish-speaking whites in Costa Rica take pride in the fact that they have kept their blood free of mixture with other races. They trace their ancestors back to Andalusia and other parts of Spain.

Most of the whites live on a plateau, where it is cooler than in the low parts used for raising bananas. The average temperature is about 68 degrees above zero Fahrenheit on the plateau. (For travel section of your scrapbook.)

Dominion's Part In Postwar World

"In the new world order now being born the rich and beautiful province of British Columbia will have an important contribution to make," David C. Lamb, C.M.G., L.L.D., O.F., Salvation Army Commissioner and internationally known figure told men and women of the Canadian Club Monday.

Speaking on the postwar world, with particular regard for Canada's place in it, Commissioner Lamb, who said he is making his present tour of Canada and the United States strictly on his own, dealt with international and domestic problems.

In the international field, he said, there are six points to be observed. He outlined these as follows: 1, the establishment of an international police force; 2, a grand assize court, to try and punish those responsible for war; 3, an international court of equity; 4, an international political clinic; 5, restitution, and 6, reparations.

"The Atlantic Charter with all its implications must be observed," he said.

Dealing with the domestic field, Commissioner Lamb said that the great objective must be to remedy such a situation as existed before the war when able-bodied men and women were regarded as liabilities rather than assets to the state.

"In the postwar world one of the greatest problems for Canada, and one field in which she will make her greatest contribution, will be in the matter of immigration," he said.

"There will inevitably be a great and human cry from the British Isles and the continent of Europe and while there will be plenty of work there for the next decade or two, there will be tens of thousands of very desirable families of the best type desirous of building their new homes far from the horrors and memories of the Old World," he said.

He pointed out, however, that immigration to this country must be based not upon pressure from elsewhere, but upon the capacity of this Dominion to absorb.

Anglo-Saxon ideals must be preserved; a back-to-the-land slogan may be misleading and dangerous, because the demand for the products of the city has now increased a thousandfold while the demand for agricultural products has not increased beyond our ability to produce them with present machine methods.

The speaker was introduced by H. P. Hodges and thanked by W. T. Straith, K.C., M.L.A.

Akvab Blasted In Series of Raids

NEW DELHI (CP)—R.A.F. planes, in a series of forays over western Burma, bombed the Japanese base at Akvab again Monday, attacked an enemy camp at Myohaung and shot up traffic on the Irrawaddy and Kaladan rivers a British communique announced today.

Oil installations at Chauk also were attacked. The communique reported that a "good weight" of bombs was unloaded by Wellington bombers on Akvab, where a considerable number of enemy troops was said to be concentrated.

Clarifies Changes In Fire Contracts

At the last session of the provincial Legislature a change was made in the statutory conditions which govern fire insurance policies in this province and John L. Noble, manager of the British Columbia Underwriters' Association, states that the amendment serves to clarify the situation for policy holders in respect of perils of war.

Current fire insurance policies under the British Columbia statutory conditions which have been in effect for a number of years exclude payment of claims arising from war damage, but in light of modern warfare, the existing provision was considered unsatisfactory, particularly in relation to the terms of the War Risk Insurance Act of the Dominion Government which definitely states the perils of war for which that act provides coverage.

The clause which defines war perils, as provided under the War Insurance Act, will now be used as the exclusion clause in fire policies in British Columbia in place of the present clause embodied in the statutory insurance conditions forming part of all fire policy contracts. This simply means that the war perils defined and insured under the War Risk Insurance Act will not be insured under the ordinary fire policy.

Mr. Noble also said that many policy holders would benefit as a result of board insurance companies having agreed to incorporate the new war risk exclusion clause in the additional perils supplemental contract, which is an extension to the fire policy, providing insurance against loss or damage caused by windstorm, hail, lightning, explosion, riot, impact by aircraft or vehicles, smoke damage and leakage from automatic sprinkler systems.

The advantage of the new clause to the many purchasers of the supplemental contract is that it is less restrictive than the former clause.

Berlin Radio Claims British Cruiser Sunk

LONDON (CP) — The Berlin radio claimed today that a German submarine had sunk a British cruiser and torpedoed another vessel in attacks on a Royal Naval squadron in the Mediterranean.

The broadcast, recorded by Reuters news agency, was without confirmation from any Allied sources.

Engineer Here With Security Plan

John P. Loftus, retired construction engineer, who for the last 30 years in B.C. has been supervising some of the chief construction projects in this province, including Powell River and Granby Consolidated, has arrived in Victoria. He is working now on a plan for postwar security, he said.

"The Atlantic Charter promises four freedoms to everyone," he said. "My plans guarantee them. Followed, it will bring about the proper balance between production and distribution without interfering with our social organization."

Mr. Loftus advocates forming a company in every municipality with the council as the executive. This council will rent land and put idle men to work on it. Once men are hired the council will not have the right to discharge anyone. That will be the duty of the workers themselves who will estimate whether or not a man is doing his share, thus putting driving power behind the lazy man who is doing his best.

Wages paid on a sliding scale would give every employee a small sum each week. Each employee would be able to purchase at the company store all goods necessary for a decent standard of living. Then after all debts were paid all money on hand would be divided according to days of work and rate.

Mr. Loftus today received a letter from Premier Ernest Manning of Alberta, saying: "Surely as power-driven machines replace manpower, and at the same time, our ability to produce is increased, then the resulting security and leisure should be distributed to all."

Old Age Pensioners' Farm Earnings

In an effort to make farm earnings of old-age pensioners free from deduction, Agriculture Minister MacDonald will meet with Provincial Secretary Geo. S. Pearson this week.

"We're hoping to place old-age pensioners in the same position as those receiving dependents' allowance," Wm. MacGillivray, director of the Emergency Farm Labor Service, said, in announcing the meeting.

The dependents' allowance board announced that earnings of dependents for agricultural work during seeding, harvesting or fruit packing seasons shall be considered as casual earnings and will not affect any award of dependents' allowance.

At present, old-age pensioners are allowed to earn up to $125

a year without deduction from their pensions.

Volunteer field fighters whose casual earnings do not exceed $660 a year are also exempt from income tax, Mr. MacGillivray said.

Labor Lord Mayor

DUBLIN (CP) — Alderman Martin O'Sullivan Monday night was unanimously elected Lord Mayor of Dublin, becoming the Elre capital's first labor mayor.

"Old fogey? I was just that..."

"Your letter from camp set me thinking, daughter... and it's given me some chuckles, too. Remember when you called me an old 'fogey'? I was, wasn't I? You wanting to join up, and me talking about 'woman's place being in the home.' I'm not really as old-fashioned as that, though.

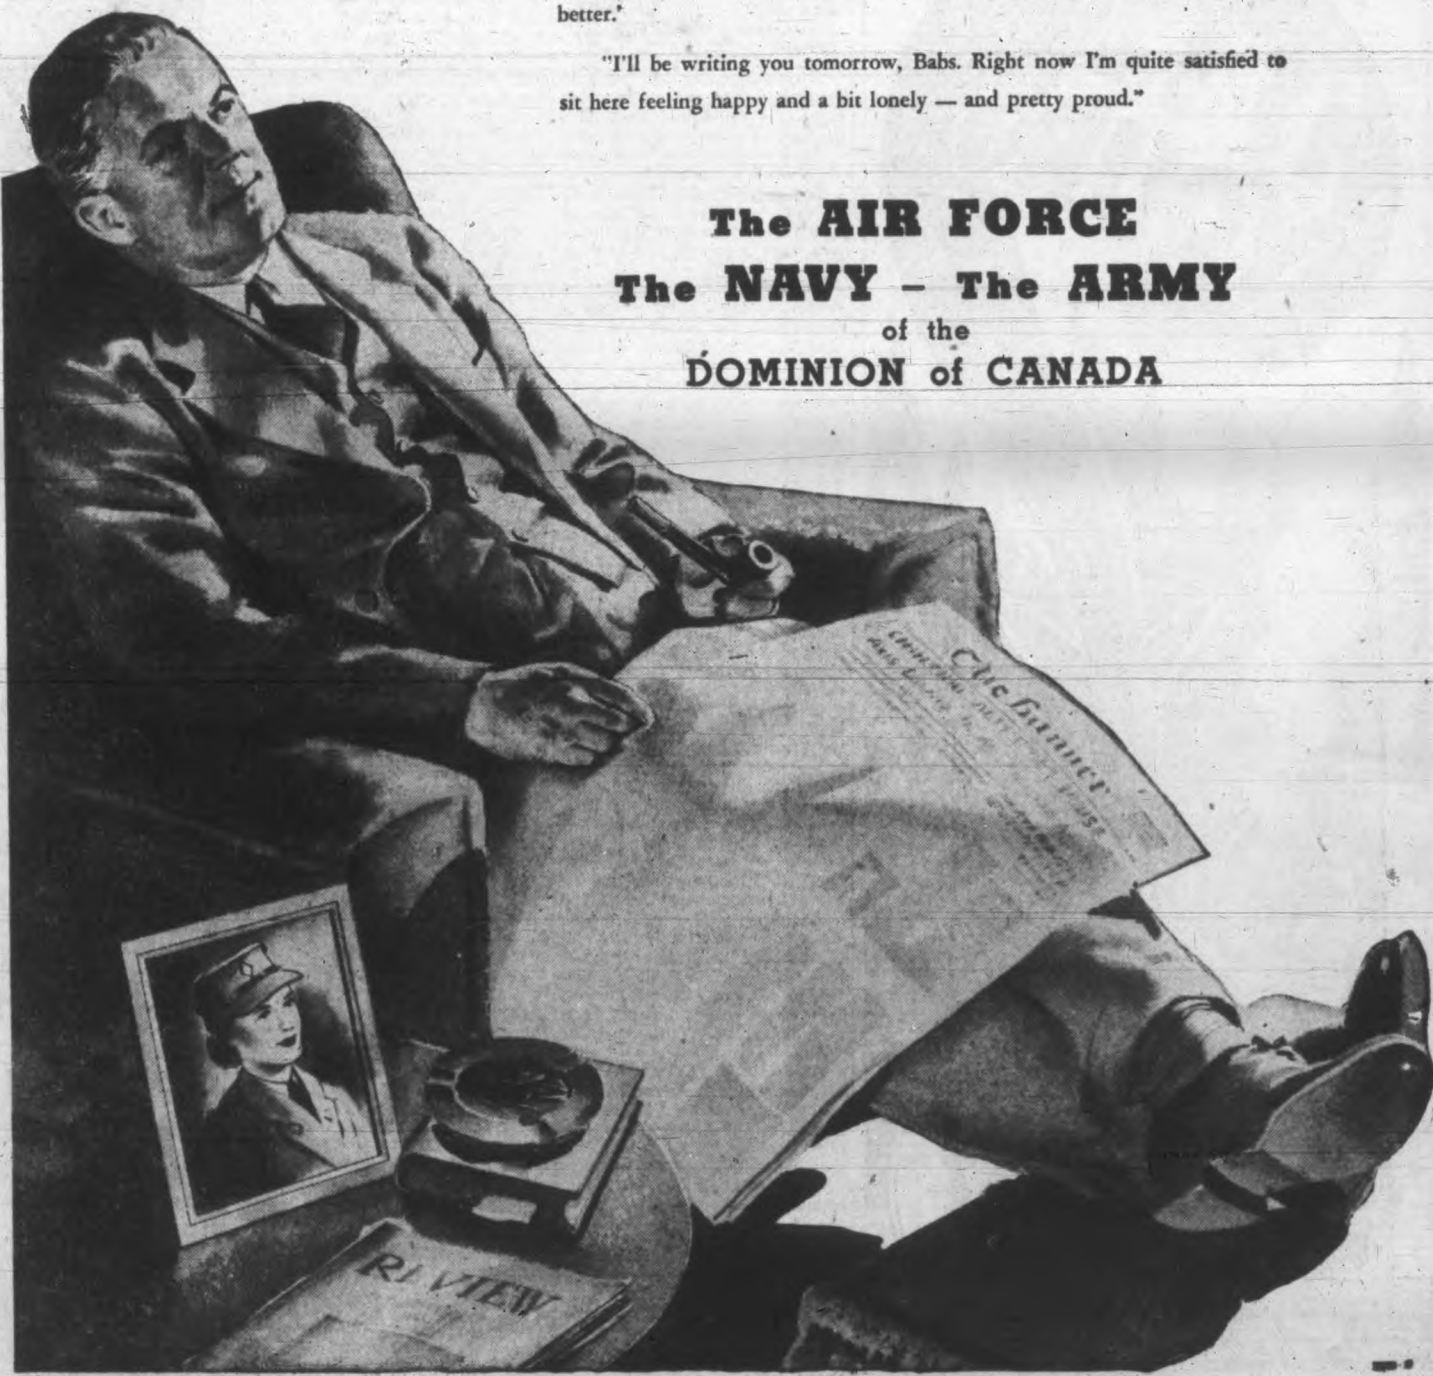

"But did you let me get away with it? Not a chance — and I'm glad.

"You're getting your teeth into the job, and now we both begin to realize that your work does release a man for actual fighting. This is a different war from the last one. We've all got to serve in some way. So I can say only one thing... Stick to it, Barbara, and do the best you know how.

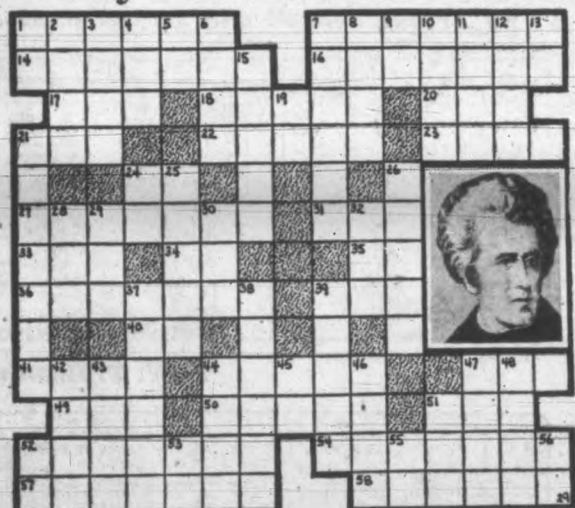

"Your mother was glad to hear the girls you're with are such a swell bunch. Ted tells us the same thing about his outfit overseas. Another thing that tickles us is the way the life agrees with you, that you... 'never felt better.'

"I'll be writing you tomorrow, Babs. Right now I'm quite satisfied to sit here feeling happy and a bit lonely — and pretty proud."
